ALDERMEN IN SPECIAL SESSION

Several Appropriations Made, Including $17,000 For Pumping Plant, and Garage Permits Granted at Midsummer Meeting

Only four members of the Board of Aldermen were absent from the special meeting Monday night. They were President Harriman and Aldermen Heathcote, Blake and McAuslan. Those who left their summer homes at the call of duty were Aldermen Cole, Hollis, Clement, Goodwin, Spaulding, Cook, McCarthy, Forknall, Kendrick, Carter, Nichols, Morse, Allen, Holt, Whidden, Madden, and Angier. The meeting started promptly with Vice-President Cole in the chair. At 8.05 o'clock several committees called for a recess, business was resumed at 10.20 and the meeting ended shortly after eleven o'clock.

Although the docket was largely routine several matters of importance were decided. Probably the principal one was the appropriating of $17,000 for the purchase and housing of a pumping engine for the Water Department. The committee on the recommendation of a special aldermanic committee, appointed to investigate the situation, following the warning given by Mayor Childs in his 1919 inaugural address.

By an agreement with the Metropolitan Water Board, which purchased for $60,000 the old Waban Hill reservoir when the city completed its present reservoir on the top of the same hill, Newton can, in case of emergency, take 15,000,000 gallons of water a year from the Metropolitan supply but, at present, there is no adequate way of getting this additional supply in to the reservoir on top of the hill.

The emergency pumping plant, which will be electrically driven, will take care of this problem. But the special committee, whose report is printed elsewhere, warns that Newton needs a supply of 6,000,000 gallons a day; that the present pumping plant and conduit system in Needham, in use since 1874, has outlived its usefulness and must soon be replaced with modern equipment.

In addition to the $17,000 the Board also appropriated $2500 which the committee recommended shall be spent by the City Engineer in making tentative borings, tests and other steps toward locating a better water supply at a lower level, in the centre of the present Needham lands. Alderman Forknall questioned having such work done by the Engineering Department rather than by the Water Department. City Solicitor Bishop was called upon and announced that both by precedent and ordinance such work is done by the City Engineer. The order was amended so as to include the clause "in conjunction with the Water Commissioner." Alderman Forknall wished to have it divided before a vote was taken, as he wished the $2500 to be spent only for borings, etc., Alderman Cook supported him but they lost the motion and the order was passed according to the wording regarding it in the report of the special committee.

It was voted to transfer, for the benefit of the Assessors, $125,000 from the excess and deficiency account to the revenue account. Orders calling for a bond issue of $30,000 for street improvement work, and an appropriation of $45,000 for reconstructing Dudley road were held up in order that further information regarding them may be obtained. Likewise appropriations of $1200 for repainting and cleaning the lunch room and toilet rooms in the basement of the Classical High School, and $300 to provide special curtains for lantern work in the Technical High, Stearns and Bigelow Schools did not prevail.

These appropriations were made: Public Buildings Department: Changing Sloyd and Cooking rooms in basement of Peirce School, and cloth screens in Peirce School for open air classrooms, $750; Treasury Department: Interest Temporary Loans, $5,400.00; Interest on Funded Debt, $1,350.79; Tax Titles owned by the City, 257.55, 1918 Taxes on Land given to the city, corner of Margin and Highland streets, 22.09; Accounting Department, appropriation deficits, $600.00.

In addition, $9,000 was appropriated for the purchase of land for city purposes on Elliot street, between the Boston & Albany tracks and Columbia avenue, Ward 5. It was voted to accept an offer of $5,000 for 61,745 feet of city land, from the Saco-Lowell Shops at Newton Upper Falls. This tract is adjacent to land of the company and the New Haven tracks.

The sum of $470 was appropriated to settle the claim for back pay of patrolman Frank Larivee, who sought reimbursement for the time he was not working, pending his discharge by Chief Mitchell and the decision by the courts that this discharge was illegal.

Pole locations and attachment permits were called upon and announced that

WEALTH IN HONEY

Bee Keepers Hear Interesting Facts at Annual Field Day at Newton Upper Falls

Some interesting facts regarding the keeping of bees and the raising of honey were disclosed at the thirteenth annual field day of the Eastern Massachusetts Society of Bee Keepers, which was held last Saturday on the estate of Charles J. O'Malley, 139 High street, Newton Upper Falls. Threatening weather undoubtedly kept many away but there were more than 150 present, some coming by automobile from New Hampshire, Connecticut and other states. Congressman Robert Luce, who was to have delivered an address of welcome, was unable to be present, so the gathering was welcomed by the president of the society, S. Lathrop Davenport. One result of the meeting will probably be that legislation to prevent the spraying of trees and foliage in the vicinity of apiaries will be sought for.

Burton N. Gates of Worcester, bee expert for the State Board of Agriculture, who was a speaker, urged everyone present to use all their influence to have such a bill enacted. Mr. Gates told of the great losses to beekeepers through the bees seeking honey in blossoms where arsenate of lead had been sprayed in the fight against insect pests. He said that creosote preparations sprayed on with the lead was a preventative.

An interesting talk on bee culture in California was given by Ernest L. Root of Medina, O., who journeyed to the Pacific coast to study bees. One bee keeper there, he said, sold honey worth $25,000 from 3,000 hives. Honey is gathered ten months of the year in California and in some places hives are so large that stepladders are necessary to reach the tops. He also told of the immense amount of honey consumed in this country every year and of its value both as a food and a medicine.

Other speakers told of bee diseases, including the dread paralysis, which infects a queen and thereby is transmitted to all her progeny. The profits to be derived from bee keeping were also explained, as were improved methods and devices for handling bees. (Continued on Page 8)

ENDS LONG SERVICE

Edward F. Hamlin of Newton Centre Resigns After 45 Years in State Office

Massachusetts is soon to lose one of its oldest officials for on October 1, Edward F. Hamlin of 58 Pelham street, Newton Centre, for forty-two years executive secretary to the Governor's Council, will relinquish his office. His resignation was accepted by the Council on Wednesday and Charles A. Southworth of Lynn, who has been Mr. Hamlin's assistant for more than a decade, has been appointed his successor.

Mr. Hamlin has been a resident of Newton since 1882, having always lived in the Newton Centre district. He was born in Plainfield in 1842 and is a Civil War veteran, having been a sergeant in Company I, 52nd Massachusetts Volunteers. His actual term of service to the State is forty-five years for in 1874 he was appointed to a clerkship in the Adjutant-General's office.

In 1877 Governor Alexander H. Rice appointed him to his present position which at that time was clerk to the Governor. He has held this office continuously since, serving under fifteen Governors. As part of his duties he has been pardon clerk and in this capacity has probably listened to more appeals for the release of criminals than any other person in the nation.

Mr. Hamlin recalls many interesting things in connection with his office. When he started there were but two clerks in the Governor's office where now eight are required. Everything had to be written in long-hand as typewriters, shorthand and other labor-saving things were unknown. At that time the State owned the Hoosac tunnel. The Council audited all bills and served much in the capacity of a board of directors. In those days the office would handle approximately fifteen appointments a week, including even notaries. Now there are from ninety to 100. During his term Mr. Hamlin has met many distinguished persons who visited the State House.

NEWTON'S WATER SUPPLY

Special Aldermanic Committee Points Out Where Present Antiquated System is Inadequate and Some Remedies

The Special Committee on Water Supply, appointed March 3, 1919, to whom was referred "all matters relating to the Water Department," having considered the same, submits the following report:—

This subject comes from the Inaugural Address of His Honor the Mayor (1919) in which he says:

"The advisability of improving the methods of collecting our water supply from the reservation lands and the obtaining of an increased amount of water when and as the consumption demands is a question for the near future and a careful engineering investigation as to the best methods to be employed should be commenced as soon as practicable with a view both to the improvement of the existing supply conduit and also to the obtaining of a greater supply at a lower level from the reservation in Needham."

and from his recommendation for the annual "Budget" of an appropriation of $10,000 for a "motor-driven pumping engine" and $2,500 for "testing for water supply."

Your committee has made a careful study of the information it has obtained from the Water Commissioner and the City Engineer, and the records, plans and statements submitted by them, and has viewed the territory owned by the city from which water is now and may be obtained, and the pumping machinery and buildings used, and submits the main facts, evidence, and its conclusions and recommendations thereon.

1st. The total amount invested in the construction of the works, including land and right to take water, exceeds $2,750,000, and the present effective value of the whole plant as a water supply system is not less than $2,500,000.

It appears from a statement of the Comptroller that, at the end of the year 1914 the Water Department had a net surplus to its credit of $56,944.53; in 1915, $62,081.02; in 1916, $85,181.01; in 1917, $55,309.20; December 31, 1918, $71,378.65. The gross income of the department for 1918 was $174,561.88. The net bonded water debt today, after deducting sinking fund accumulations, is less than $330,000, of which $88,000, serial issues, is retired at the rate of $8,000 per year until 1928, and there is a lessening rate. The balance of the outstanding debt will be progressively retired by sinking funds on hand and accumulating, through interest and diminishing appropriations therefor.

2nd. The water supplied to the city is obtained through three physical structures—a porous wooden conduit surrounded by gravel packed around it collecting ground water by percolation, with driven wells contributing into it; a line of open jointed, vitrified clay piping into which ground water finds its way and through which it flows into the wooden conduit; a large deep well from which water is drawn by vertical centrifugal pumps electrically driven and discharged into a water-tight concrete conduit through which it is conveyed to the wooden conduit, and Thence, it passes through a twenty-four inch cast iron main, under Charles River, and is discharged into a pump well within the pumping station on Needham street. At this station it is pumped into and through the distribution piping to the mains and reservoir on Waban Hill. This reservoir, now fully constructed, contains when full ten million gallons of water, less than three days supply for the city in the summer months when the consumption approximates four million gallons per day.

3rd. The Metropolitan water supply is available to the city in emergencies and under certain conditions, and is guaranteed therefor. In October, 1899, the original Newton reservoir was sold to the Metropolitan district for the sum of $60,000, its service to the city having been replaced by the new Waban Hill reservoir; considerations for furnishing water to the city "free of charge," attached to the sale, were:

"First: In all cases of emergency, except a deficiency in the source of supply.

Second, Each year, probably in the summer months, with 15,000,000 gallons until such time as the source of supply, with this quantity added, is insufficient, or the city enters fully into the Metropolitan District."

These considerations were modified on the representations of the Water Commissioner by vote of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board on April 5, 1919, by the following vote:

"VOTED: To grant the request of the City of Newton for permission to connect its water supply system with the Waban reservoir during repairs on its pumping plant and to take therefrom without charge, for a period not exceeding two months, such quantity of water as may be necessary for its use while such repairs are being made, with the understanding that the water shall not be taken during extremely hot dry weather, when the consumption on high-service may be at the maximum rate; the period of two months to run from a date to be hereafter agreed upon; the work of connecting with the reservoir and the taking of water to be done in a manner approved by the Chief Engineer of the Water Works."

The Town of Brookline has offered to supply water in case of an emergency in any way lawfully in its power, but a daily supply of probably not much exceeding 300,000 gallons can be depended upon from the Brookline works for a few days only.

As to the quantity of water now available from the present Newton works, the Water Commissioner believes and states that about four million gallons per day is the limit of the sources as now developed and that of this quantity the wooden conduit with its infiltrating water and contributing driven wells yield two millions, the open well one and one-quarter millions, the open jointed pipe line three-quarters of a million.

The Metropolitan water may now be temporarily supplied, through pipe connections in existence, to the city, but from an elevation of fifty-five feet lower than the Newton city reservoir. Such a service is inadequate to furnish and maintain the water pressure now in use and needed for adequate fire protection and furnishing water on the higher residential areas within the city. Hence the Metropolitan service cannot be a satisfactory substitute for the service provided by the city's reservoir on the top of Waban Hill.

The Needham Street pumping station contains two pumping engines, one of a type expensive in its running, obsolete in its pattern, and so old in its service as to be indestructible for sustained operation; one of later and more economical (in operation) type, and two horizontal, water-jacketed boilers of the Belpair design.

It is agreed by the Water Commissioner and the City Engineer that to disturb the foundations of these engines or to undertake extensive changes in, under or around this plant or building, would involve a large and unforeseen expense for construction, endanger the structures now standing, and probably interrupt the supplying of water to the city from the present sources.

The pertinence of the suggestion of His Honor the Mayor recognizing "the obtaining of a greater supply at a lower level from the reservation in Needham" rests upon the fact that the present pumping engines cannot draw the water through the wooden conduit below a water level somewhat higher than the top of that conduit, while the supply of water which the ground will yield will be largely increased by drawing it from a level five or six feet lower than at present.

The policy and ruling of the Metropolitan Board is that Metropolitan water shall not be continuously furnished.

ARE BROTHERS IN TREACHERY

American Indian at His Worst, and the Hun, Shown to Have Qualities in Common.

The German is not the originator of the "Kamerad" ruse, according to Ed Houston, a farmer living north of Junction City, Kan., who followed all accounts of battles in the big war very closely.

Mr. Houston says that the Indian was an adept at crying "Kamerad," in his own tongue, of course, long before the German empire was formed, and cites an experience of his own to prove it.

Mr. Houston was a member of Troop G, Seventh cavalry, the regiment commanded by the gallant Col. George Custer, for eight years. Under Captain Edgerly he went to the scene of the Pine Ridge troubles. The troops lined up to disarm a band of Indians that had given themselves up. They included the chief, Big Foot, and a large number of braves, as well as women and children.

The captives were herded together and soldiers formed a hollow square around them. Each Indian wore his blanket draped over his shoulders, and, with arms folded across the chest in the customary Indian position, maintained a stoical silence. It was known that a number of the Indians carried guns, but no treachery was suspected.

Suddenly, apparently without a given signal, one Indian opened fire on the surprised troopers. Instantly all of the other braves followed suit, and even the squaws and older children joined in the attack upon the soldiers.

Little Indian boys with saved-off shotguns fought until killed, and the battle was a bloody affair. It ended when there were no more Indians, because the soldiers, angered at the trickery that had been shown, gave no quarter and the Indians asked for none.

The following day the Seventh went to Drexel Mission, where another battle took place. After the Pine Ridge trouble had been stamped out, the regiment returned to its station at Fort Riley, where Mr. Houston continued in service for a number of years.

Gull Gets Into Ashpit.

"It's crying like a baby and fighting like a devil," shouted Engineer James McQuade of the state steam tug Governor Irvin, lying in the slip between piers 18 and 20, as he ran waving his arms toward police officers, John Malcolm and John Maloney, on duty at the piers, writes a San Francisco correspondent.

"Get Captain Symon on the phone—tell him something awful is aboard the Irwin," said McQuade as he came alongside the officers, but the officers thought it better to investigate before communicating with Capt. James Symon, superintendent of the state tugs. "There's something in the ash receiver, right under the smokestack of the Irwin," McQuade said.

The officers hurried back to the tug with the engineer. Ash-pit doors were thrown open and there, gasping for breath, lay a seagull that had down down the smokestack.

"I started working its wings with my hands and blowing down its throat, and Maloney fanned it with his headgear, and in a few minutes it began to breathe all right, and flapped its wings to be off. They were scorched badly and it flew a little wobbly as it made away toward Yerba Buena island. I bet that bird will remember this day," said Malcolm.

Why American Publishers Are Liked.

Turn back to the magazines of 20 or 30 years ago and compare them with what is thought good enough for us. I was looking through such a magazine recently and found a poem by William Morris, and much else of a quality you would not more think of looking for in a current magazine than for palm trees in Whitechapel. It is different in America; in spite of gross business instincts, or because of them, they do turn out magazines which are good to look at, and very often good to read; for American editors think nothing of paying a sum for a short story which, to mention to a London editor, would make him feel as if something snapped in his head. He wouldn't understand. The consequence is the best English writers send their wares first to the American market, where they are better displayed and get a better price.—London Nation.

"First Families" Win.

Seven out of ten first prizes in the bird puzzle contest, conducted last spring by the Albuquerque Game Protective association, were carried away by Pueblo and Navajo Indian children. The contest was open to all schoolchildren in New Mexico, of which the native Indians form but a small fraction, but the superior first-hand knowledge of the young redmen made them easy winners over all other contestants. The contest consisted of 29 questions on native New Mexico birds, arranged to bring out knowledge of their habits and an understanding of their value to agriculture.

Medical Science.

I think it is not an exaggeration to say that medicine, surgery, obstetrics and the many medical specialties have made more progress in the 72 years from 1846 to 1918 than in as many centuries before. I am also quite willing to believe that the next 70 years will be as fruitful as the last 70 have been.—Maj. W. W. Keen, in the Yale Review.

nished to a municipality included in the district until the supply of that municipality has been developed and utilized to its safe limit by and for the purposes of such municipality.

It is believed that the city may depend upon obtaining, by efficient means, an average daily supply exceeding five million gallons from its lands in Needham. Not until this has been proven to the contrary may the city enter upon the privileges of full membership in the Metropolitan works.

Your committee believes that this should be undertaken forthwith and, in order to determine how it may best be done, that the recommendation of His Honor the Mayor that "a careful engineering investigation as to the best methods to be employed should be commenced as soon as practicable," be adopted and ordered by the Board.

Your Committee is satisfied that (economy) and increase in supply and (economical) production cost per gallon may be secured by the location and erection of a new pumping station midway in the water-bearing lands, to which new station all of the water now available from the present conduits and well will flow as well as all additional water obtainable from undeveloped areas. The pumps in such new station would draw water from lower levels and the type of machinery may be of a more modern kind than those of the present engines and much more economical. The present boilers have nearly reached the age limit at which they may be safely operated; the new engines would be operated with a much higher steam pressure than the present boilers can furnish. The saving in fuel alone would go far toward paying the interest on the new investment.

Probably a year would be required to construct the new station, equip it with machinery, and secure the increase in supply of water; thereafter the present station should be held in reserve readiness for use until experience showed it might be abandoned.

The Water Commissioner has suggested, and at the request of the committee has obtained information as to the cost thereof, an emergency station with pumps electrically driven for insuring the city against interruption to its supply through failure of the pumping engines in the present pumping station, or through the necessity of making repairs of any new pumps which may be installed in a new station. It is apparent that the Metropolitan water pressure is not equal to maintaining the service which the higher parts of the city require. A station as proposed by the Commissioner, to be located near the bank of the Metropolitan reservoir, drawing water from that reservoir by agreement under the vote of the Metropolitan Board of April 5, 1919, (heretofore quoted) and pumping it into the city's reservoir would insure the city's supply against interruption.

The committee recommends that such station be erected and equipped forthwith at an expense not to exceed $17,000, the station building to have such dimensions as to allow of adding in the future an electrically driven pumping unit designed to pump water into a high service standpipe to supply the high territory surrounding the city's reservoir.

The unused authority to issue water bonds permits the city to raise by such means under

Chapter 57, Acts of 1898, $15,000

Chapter 345, Acts of 1916, 100,000

$115,000

The surplus of the Water Department, as previously stated, was on December 31, 1918, $71,378.65; it is apparent that loans, expenditures and results are self contained in the department. That the need of placing the water supply system on a safe and satisfactory footing may be met without seriously reducing this surplus is a matter of satisfaction.

Your committee recommends that His Honor the Mayor be requested to recommend first the appropriation from this surplus of the sum of $17,000 for a pumping station to raise water from the Metropolitan reservoir into the city's reservoir. Second, to instruct the City Engineer to proceed forthwith to make such surveys, investigations, plans and estimates of capacity and cost as will show the best way of increasing the water supply of the city from the Needham lands, the location of a new pumping station, details of pumping plant, new force main and the utilization of the physical structures of the present plant, and to recommend an appropriation of $2,500 for such work and for such tests for ground water as the study may suggest and require, said appropriation to be taken from the said funds of the Water Department.

Respectfully submitted,

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

The unusual title "A Very Good Young Man" fittingly describes the role played by Bryant Washburn in his latest Paramount picture of that name which will be shown at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

There is to be a very fine vaudeville bill, consisting of five all-star acts, including: Rudinoff, the whistling artist, direct from the Marigney Theatre, Paris; The Florence Duo, burlesque magic act; Walsh and Edwards, in songs of today; Miller and Mack, comedienne, direct from the Winter Garden; and

There will also be an unusually fine organ recital by Harry Rodgers.

There will be an entire change of pictures and vaudeville Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, featuring Charles Chaplin in "Sunnyside."

On Sunday evening, at 8:00 P. M., there will be a Grand Sacred Concert with all new photoplays and vaudeville.

Optimistic Thought.

Demonstration Home Garden

The failure of squashes and cucumbers to bear fruit is quite a common occurrence. There are three causes for this condition—lack of sunlight, fresh air and bees. To do well squashes and cucumbers should not be planted too thick or in places where they are likely to become shaded during the day. If planted thickly the leaves of the plants shade the blossoms and the plant itself, thus shutting off all sunlight and circulation of fresh air among the vines. Bees do not like to frequent such spots and as a result the majority of blossoms fail to become fertile. Thinning out the plants themselves or pruning the foliage will help to overcome this trouble.

The Spotted Pelidnota is an insect that quite a few persons have found in their gardens this year. It is a large brown beetle with several small black spots on its back. It is a very common species, and is usually collected on or near grape vines. It feeds to some extent on foliage, but is not classed among our injurious species from the fact that it seldom, if ever, occurs in large numbers. No treatment is necessary usually, therefore, for its control.

There is a small caterpillar that was found last week on pole beans that seems to be important enough to warrant some attention as it had eaten holes in the foliage. The worm belongs to the looper family as its characteristics indicated. It was about a half inch or more in length, very slender, and light green in color. The looper worm obtains its name of looper through its habit of doubling up, or looping as it walks. It is a very active worm and is, therefore, more difficult to control than other sluggish caterpillars. It affects all members of the cabbage family besides peas, beans, beets, celery, lettuce, and sometimes the potato and tomato. Spraying with arsenate of lead is the best remedy using the poison in the proportion of four pounds of the arsenate of lead paste to fifty gallons of water.

The second brood of cabbage worms are now doing much damage throughout the county. Arsenate of lead spray should be used to control this insect when the cabbages are small. Any kind of a fine, dry, gritty substance is also effective when dusted upon the leaves. Handpicking the worms is the most efficient method of control on a small scale.

About this time of the year the first crop of stringbeans have been harvested or are about to be picked. If you allow the old vines to stay in the ground and give them a good cultivation they will begin to blossom again later on in the season and a second crop of beans may be obtained from them.

August is the month when thorough cultivation of the garden crops should not be neglected. Keep the spray pump working among the potatoes, for blight usually strikes the crop during the muggy weather which generally comes this month. Also it is well to be on the lookout for plant lice. Remember that "a stitch in time saves nine."

"Y" STOOD FOR HEART OF AMERICA

Is Summing Up Made by Secy. of War Baker, Who Has Just Returned From Overseas

SPEAKS STRONGLY FOR WAR WORK OF ASSOCIATION

Paying a high tribute to the work of the various welfare agencies serving the A. E. F., Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, who returned recently from a tour of inspection and investigation of our army in France and the occupied portion of Germany, has made a public statement with reference to the magnitude and accomplishments of the Young Men's Christian Association overseas, which, in the words of the Secretary of War, "by reason of its longer establishment, its larger experiences and its larger facilities, had the greater part of this work to do, especially abroad."

This statement was made by Secretary Baker in connection with the awarding of the Croix de Guerre to three Y. M. C. A. workers who served in France. At the request of Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the National War Work Council, Y. M. C. A., made recently to the War Department, there is an official investigation and survey of the Red Triangle work with the A. E. F. overseas now under way. Secretary Baker gave high praise to its work from his personal observation during the war and since the signing of the armistice.

"The Y. M. C. A. has represented the heart of America and has carried to soldiers abroad our affections and our ideals for them," says Secretary Baker. "I do not know whether I can convey to those who have not had the opportunity to see what went on there, any adequate idea of the character of that service," and "the appreciation which the War Department and the Army of the United States feel for the service rendered by the Y. M. C. A., both at home and overseas."

For the 11,229 Y. M. C. A. women and men workers sent overseas up to April 10, Secretary Baker has only words of praise. "Honest-to-God" Americans, he calls them, using the language of our soldiers. Seventy-five of these volunteer, non-combatant workers are buried "over there," in their army khaki. Fourteen were killed by shell fire in action. Two of whom were "Y" canteen workers—American women.

"When we survey this superb army which is now coming home, with its broadened shoulders, bronzed cheeks, robust health, splendid nerve, and the high spirit that comes with great accomplishment, we must remember that among the formative influences that went with it and made it possible was this social spirit which was carried from home to the front line trenches, which shared the privations and dangers and was an integral part of the army; for, in 'No-Man's Land,' where the shells fell thick and fast, there are the graves of American soldiers and the graves of the 'Y' workers side by side, not separated in their faith—finally united in their last resting place."

There were 2,891 American women Y. M. C. A. canteen workers and theatrical entertainers sent overseas up to April 10, and Secretary Baker glories these self-sacrificing workers declaring they have the love and full respect of our American soldier manhood.

In the huts, the Y. M. C. A. man and woman were found—that extraordinary beautiful thing which the Y. M. C. A. sent over, and which the dough boy learned to call an "Honest-to-God American girl."

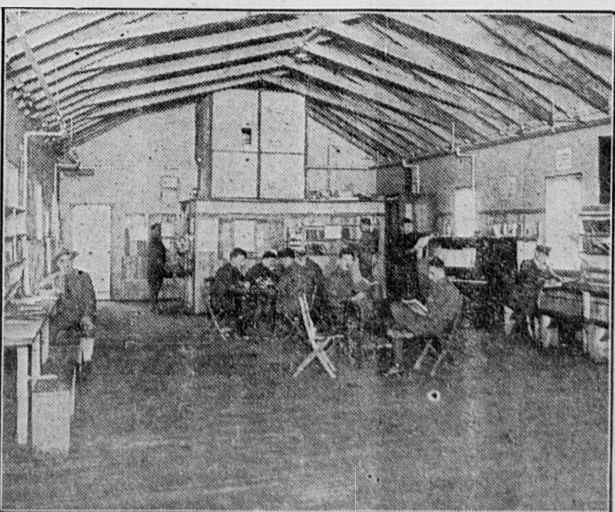

"Sometimes her hair was streaked with gray, and there was the relationship of mother and son; but ordinarily the relationship was the tender relationship of brother and sister. I have had these fine girls say: 'Mr. Secretary, I live with a regiment of soldiers fifteen miles from any other woman who can speak English, and although I have been with that regiment a month, I have never heard one man swear in my presence.'"

"As I crossed the Atlantic during the war, through the danger zone, I found the Y. M. C. A. worker on the ship, taking his place beside the soldier. When that hour was over on all these ships, coming and going, these agents of the high social purpose of America ministered to the sick and wounded, and with their amusements, magazines, books, etc., comforted, entertained and advised the well."

"The splendid work of these various war welfare agencies is very largely due to the fact," says Secretary Baker, that "no army of any size, or nationality, including our own, ever before in the history of mankind, has had such a record of health, cleanliness and high idealism of purpose. There were assembled about these soldiers not only influences of home and of neighborhood, but the great organized agencies for dealing with life of the young."

"The churches in every community had special services, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, the Commission on Training Camp Activities, the War Camp Community Service, the Jewish Welfare Board, the American Library Association, the Young Women's Christian Association—all of these agencies realized that this was an opportunity to do a great thing for America. With a singular singleness of devotion to this great cause, they co-operated and co-ordinated their forces so that there was but a common purpose among all; that was the purpose of service to the army, to the country and to the cause."

SPECIAL GREASE SYSTEM ON NEW MODEL

By the application of a simple little contrivance it is possible to grease and oil one of the new Apperson cars without soiling the hands or clothes. This little contrivance is the development of an Apperson idea, a development which would indeed be appreciated by all motor car owners. The 1920 car comes equipped with a particular type of grease cup, and equipped with a pressure grease pump with a flexible tube. The end of this flexible tube is slipped on the grease cup, given a quarter turn and becomes firmly fastened. Then the gun handle is given a turn and grease is sent direct to the bearings, it being forced under a pressure of 500 pounds. It takes no time whatever to fill all the grease cups on a motor car, and it is only a question of a short time when the majority of cars coming through will be equipped with some similar device as that found on the new Apperson.

The first of these new cars arrived last week and attracted a whole lot of attention at the Boylston street salesroom of the Apperson Company of New England.

There is some discussion as to the proper location of such a building and real estate "deals" are feared. The United States Government has a very good way of ascertaining the value of real estate. It allows the full assessed valuation and one third more. Such an arrangement as this does away with all secrecy. There is one place in Auburndale for such a building. And only one place. It is a central and convenient place with room enough for everything, and what an addition it will be to the village when we have such a building.

It Couldn't Be Done.

There was a hard boiled sergeant who delighted in "picking on" the men just from civilian life. One day he was giving the command "Right dress," and one of the fellows was napping and did not do as commanded, after the sergeant had called it out several times. Then the sergeant was furious and shouted to the fellow; "Hey, you, dress right!" And somebody else holloed: "How can you dress right on $30 a month?"

Would Elevate Business.

The barbers of Osaka, Japan, who number 4,500, have approached local authorities with a proposal to establish a training school for the knights of the razor. It has been complained that "many barbers in Osaka have not that elementary knowledge of surgery absolutely necessary for their vocation," and the better qualified wish to compel all intending to enter this profession to pass final examinations at the special school.

Paths of Democracy.

To accustom oneself to disregard the accidents of manner and station sufficiently to see the man as he is, to have a clear sight for genuine character under any of the disguises of unfamiliarity and prejudice, to know how simple and how common are the elements that go to the making of manhood, are the paths that lead to belief in democracy.—George E. Woodberry.

Rushing to the Grave.

Everything hurries in New York, including the undertakers. If the mourners will consent to the vehicle moving at a trot on the way to the cemetery, the charge is about half of that for a walking funeral.—Emporia Gazette.

ANNUAL SUMMER OUTING

The Clafin Guard Veteran Association, Inc., held their Annual Summer Outing on Tuesday last, leaving Newtonville Square in their auto's at 2 P. M., for a ride over the roads to Camp Devens, which was reached at 4 P. M., where under the guidance of Officers detailed by Gen'l McCain the Commandant, the party rode all over the immense camp and was shown every thing of interest.

At 5.30 P. M. an evening parade of a few troops remaining in the camp was tended to the visitors, after which they motored to North Acton and partook of an excellent dinner at the famous Lake Nagog Inn, returning in their autos to Newton in the evening.

The trip was greatly enjoyed, and the day was ideal.

The camp consists of eleven thousand acres, and is a city in itself having all the latest conveniences, such as Library buildings, Post Office, Theatre; Y. M. C. A.; Salvation Army, and Knights of Columbus buildings for recreation and amusements. Fine tennis courts, several Fire Engine houses; large Heating Plant; Electric Light Plant, and in fact everything that would be found in a large city.

The roads all through the camp are as good as any of our suburban cities and towns.

The party was shown through all the beautiful Hospital buildings, which were marvels of neatness and sanitary conditions, all windows, doors, and piazzas were screened in with wire netting, and many of the officers' quarters were beautiful with grass plots, flower beds, enclosed in white stone borders.

The kitchens were immaculately clean and would compare with those in our best hotels.

No healthier or attractive location could possibly be found.

The trenches, dug-outs, Bomb proof enclosure several feet under ground, wire entanglements, etc., were visited, and a remarkable piece of engineering in the construction of an imitation tree trunk of concrete and cement, several feet high with peck holes, and entered from under ground, which was a perfect reproduction of a tree cut off by shells, leaving the top jagged.

At the dinner, Mayor Childs, and three officers from Camp Devens, guests of the association, made a few remarks, and all felt that it was the most instructive and enjoyable outing they had ever attended.

CAMP FRANK A. DAY

Anyone who chanced to visit Camp Frank A. Day last Saturday afternoon would have been greatly astonished (if he had not known beforehand what was going on) to see an elephant, a brown bear, several monkeys, a strong man, a troop of acrobats, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, and other movie stars together with innumerable clowns, who under the guidance of a real ring master, top hat and all, put on one of the best shows seen in these parts for years. There was also a side show where you could have your fortune told, see the Siamese twins, the tattooed man, the bearded lady, the huge spider, the bottomless well, and many other curiosities and freaks.

This great show was given by the leaders and campers of the Frank A. Day camp and was so successful that it will no doubt become an annual affair.

The camp is fortunate in having so many good friends and parents who are interested in its success. A fine flag, which flies from the new pole on the campus, two double-deck beds, a new navy stove, and a swimming float and diving board, are gifts which this season are giving much comfort and pleasure to the campers.

Those who went to camp last Friday were Norton Leeds, Dwight and George Colburn, Charles and Leon Fowler, Anthony Palema, Eric Bang, Robert Savory, and Edward Barnes.

Rev. H. Grant Person was the speaker at the Sunday morning camp service on July 28th, which was held in the outdoor chapel.

FORMER RESIDENT A SUICIDE

Overwork Causes Elliot Bright to End His Life in Philadelphia

The many friends of Elliot Bright, who, for the past two years had resided at 14 Crystal street, Newton Centre, were greatly shocked by a report from Philadelphia on Wednesday that he had taken his own life there. Overwork is given as the cause. Mr. Bright went to Philadelphia three weeks ago to take up his new duties as sales manager in that city for the Atlas Baking Company of Boston.

While a resident here he had been connected, in various capacities, with Wheelock, Loyal & Company, dealers in steel, at 128 Sidney street, Cambridge. He was popular with the members of that firm.

The family came to Newton from Cleveland, O. Beside his wife he leaves two daughters, Anne, aged eleven years, and Eleanor, eighteen years old, who was graduated from the local High School last June. His wife and daughters left Newton the first of this week for their new home in Bryn Mawr.

KILLED BY FALLING

City Employee Is Victim of Tumble from Load of Hay

Funeral services for James McGuire of 38 Pleasant street, Nonantum, a city employee who was fatally injured by falling from a load of hay last Friday, were held on Tuesday at the Church of Our Lady, with a large number of his friends and associates present.

The pastor, Rev. Lawrence W. Slatery, celebrated a requiem mass, with his curates, Fathers Quirbach and Mantell, assisting. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham. The bearers were Edward Kelly, Edward Kinchla, Bernard Mullen and Michael James and Thomas McGuire, all of Newton. The two last named are nephews.

Mr. McGuire was sixty-seven years old and leaves a widow and two sons. For nearly a quarter of a century he was night watchman at the Aetna Mills. Then he was employed in the City Forestry Department and more recently was fireman at the lighting and heating plant in the rear of Police Headquarters, West Newton.

The accident which caused his death occurred on the grounds of the Silver Lake mill. His neck was broken in falling.

RUNAWAY BOYS TAKEN

Tired of the drudgery of working in the textile mills of Fall River three boys ran away from their homes there last Sunday but were picked up by Patrolman Thomas Leehan at Newton at an early hour Monday morning and turned over to their parents.

When found the boys were hungry and tired but determined not to go back to the mills. They were fifteen-year-old William Phillips, Bernard McCall, aged sixteen, and George Holden, fifteen. The last-named gave a fictitious name but his identity was discovered when their parents came for them.

NEW LIGHTS IN BRANCH LIBRARY

A new lighting system has been installed in the room used as a branch of the Public Library in the Hyde School at Newton Highlands. The work was done by the D. L. Kenslea Company under an appropriation made last Spring. Two weeks were required to complete the task and now six large ceiling lights of the indirect variety are in place. There are three switches for operating them. Changes are now being made in some of the hall lights in the same school.

HAD BIG PART IN VICTORY

World Likely to Be Amazed When It Learns What the Aircraft Really Accomplished.

We have become so used to stories of wonderful feats accomplished by aircraft during the war that everything we hear nowadays leaves us almost cold. The things that, before the war, would have furnished bold headlines in the newspapers and have been a topic of discussion for days in the places where people congregate excite no more than passing notice. It is scarcely surprising, then, that the story of how touch has been maintained for more than two years between the allied armies of the Near East and the gallant remnants of the Serbians and Montenegrins who were hidden among their mountain fastnesses, and of how they were supplied with arms and cartridges by airplane, has hardly attracted attention. There has been nothing but the barest mention of the fact. We are not told how and from where the machines carried out their mission, of how many were engaged in the task of supply, or of what effect their wonderful performances may have had on the situation by keeping up the spirits of the gallant few who have held out against the enemy for so many weary months. We are simply told that the Serbian army, in its victorious advance, has obtained touch with those bands, who "since the Austro-Bulgarian occupation have been holding out among the mountains and have been continuously supplied with arms, food and cartridges by airplane." Now that the episode is historical, concludes Flight, and the enemy can gain no possible advantage from knowing how it was done, it is a pity that some official commentator with an imagination cannot tell us the full story, which must be a real epic of war.

JUST WHAT BILLION MEANS

Probably Few People Have Right Conception of What an Enormous Amount It Represents.

We hear of billions these days, but it is probable that very few persons have any notion of what an enormous amount of money a billion represents.

We do know, however, how rapidly an expert counter of coins manipulates them. You can scarcely follow the motion of his fingers as he shifts the coins from one pile to another and counts them. The experts in the treasury department will count 4,000 silver dollars an hour and keep this up all day long, but that is their limit.

Working eight hours a day, then, an expert counter of coin will count 32,000 silver dollars in a day, but how long will it take him at that rate to count a million dollars? Thirty one days!

But that is only the beginning of the measurements of great figures, for if the same man were to continue to count silver dollars at the same rate of speed for ten years he would find that he had counted only 100,000,000 of them, and that to count 1,000,000,000 of them would require 102 years of steady work at the rate of eight hours a day during every working day of every one of the 102 years.

Not a Modern Gun.

"What were you going to do with this revolver?" asked Walter Pritchard, judge of city court.

"Shoot rabbits," replied Abe McMurray, colored, age seventeen, 356 Fayette street, who was on trial charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The judge examined the weapon, which was a small one, and noticed that the barrel would not revolve automatically. He called the defendant's attention to this fact, and was told that it would revolve if turned by hand.

The judge still appeared undecided, then finally remarked: "If this was a real gun I would fine you $100 and costs, but since it is only about half a gun I will make the fine just half the usual amount." Then he wrote $50 and costs across the face of the affidavit.—Indianapolis News.

Missouri Mule Always There.

The Missouri mule was in the war long before the Missouri soldier entered it. The declaration of war was made for him in 1914, two years and a half before Pershing and the thousands of other Missourians got their orders to wheel into line. He had made a brilliant record there before their appearance. But, according to the London advices, he seems to have felt the impulse of Missouri behind him at the last, for it is written: "The mule shared in the big British advances on the western front this fall and proved his grit and worth by keeping right up with the rapidly advancing artillery." That is a Missouri characteristic.

Some Name!

According to the camp poster at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Wash., camp record blanks were found insufficient to accommodate the address of an Australian who came indirectly assuming name of the individual, Llan-fairpwllgwyngyllogogogoch in the county of Anglesey, North Wales. When he joined the army he had a residence at Waenarlwgdd, Swansea road, Goverton, South Wales.

Polarine

"Adjust Your Oil Feed Correctly—and you'll find Polarine is the right oil," remarked the veteran transportation manager. "Give a truck or a passenger car the right dose of Polarine and your motor will stay powerful and keep remarkably free from carbon."

"The reason? Polarine retains its body at cylinder heat. That means full compression and the utmost power from every drop of gas. Properly used, Polarine burns up clean and goes out with the exhaust. Means a lot in keeping down fuel bills and costs for overhauling."

The host gave an amusing account of his experiences in handling bees at night and the dozen hives he maintains were inspected by the gathering. At luncheon honey sandwiches were served, the honey being donated by Susan E. Howard of Stoneham.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

More women patients, three to one, are sent to hospitals than men, in times of peace. This comes, in large degree, from the fact that women live indoors, and breathe dust-laden second-hand atmosphere.

WAR-TIME CAKES.

The cakes that patriotic women indulge in are few and on those when frosted—which is seldom—honey, sirup (maple or corn), is used instead of sugar. In many cakes barley flour may be substituted for the wheat entirely, making a most tasty cake; in others the wheat flour is saved by using part barley flour.

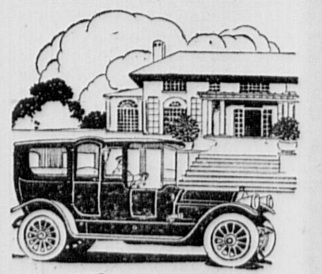

Sour Cream Spice Cake.—Take a half cupful of sugar, a cupful of sour cream, two tablespoonfuls of corn sirup, three-fourths of a cupful of white flour, a cupful of barley flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of baking powder and a teaspoonful of soda, a half teaspoonful of cloves, and the same of grated nutmeg, and a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Mix as usual and bake in gem pans.

Spice Cake With Sour Milk.—Cream together a cupful of sugar with a third of a cupful of shortening; add a cupful of sour milk, one egg well beaten, a cupful each of barley and wheat flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder, a half teaspoonful of soda, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, a third of a teaspoonful of cloves and the same of salt; a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, and lastly a cupful of raisins. Beat well and make in a loaf.

Chocolate Cup Cakes.—Cream together a half cupful of sweet fat, a cupful of sugar; add a half cupful of hot water to 1 1/2 squares of chocolate, beat two eggs, sift together one cupful of barley flour, a half cupful of wheat flour, a half teaspoonful of baking powder, a teaspoonful of soda and blend ingredients as usual, using a half cupful of sour milk and raisins and flavoring to taste. Mix, beat well and bake in gem pans.

Barley Chocolate Drop Cakes.—Combine the following ingredients: One-fourth cupful of shortening, one egg, one cupful of barley flour, one half teaspoonful of soda, a square of melted chocolate, a half cupful of nuts, a cupful of sugar, a half cupful of sweet milk, a half cupful of wheat flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder and a cupful of sugar. This recipe makes three dozen.

"Keeping the Home Fires Burning"

A Typical "Y" Hut over there... Thousands of these centers followed our boys in France wherever they went—and kept the Home Fires burning.

"Y" SPORTS OVER THERE

Big Figures Show Popularity with Doughboys—7,000,000 Take Part in Games.

Boston—Sport followers in the A. E. F. are given a slant on the much-argued question as to what is "the most popular sport" in the army, in the figures on participation and attendance throughout the entire A. E. F. for one month, just received at Northeastern Department "Y" headquarters from Elwood S. Brown, chief physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

These figures reveal football leading boxing, but only by a slight margin. Counting spectators and participants, football's aggregate was 1,335,752; and for boxing, 1,310,944. Considering spectators only, boxing takes a slight lead, with 1,127,202 as against 1,023,082 for football.

However, other questions besides that of "popularity" are known to have had something to do with these results. For example in army centers in the devastated parts of France, difficulties of finding suitable fields and amphitheatres have contributed in some measure to the choice of sports.

According to Mr. Brown's report, the total participation by the A. E. F. in all sorts of sports during February was 6,564,747. Taking the estimate of 1,650,000 as the average number of American soldiers in France in February, it is seen that the big sport program, outlined in orders from G. H. Q. last December touched every member of the A. E. F. four times over. If spectators, numbering 4,891,382 are also included, the whole A. E. F. has been touched seven times over by the sports program.

Participation in mass games, designed especially for the armies, has had an enormous lot to do with the piling up of these big totals of athletic play and attendance. The total mass game participation in the First, Second and Third Armies during February was 3,403,963. This represents participation in a variety of informal games, such as shuttle relays, circle races and many other competitions of that sort. The Third Army led in the total of participants and spectators in athletics for the month.

The figures given in Mr. Brown's report are compiled from reports sent him by Y. M. C. A. physical directors in the field. Army orders outlining the general sports program placed a Y. M. C. A. athletic leader with every military unit in France, Luxembourg and Germany.

HOME WORK STILL "CARRIES ON"

In Spite of Demobilization "Y" Huts Continue to be Popular.

Boston, Mass.—Despite demobilization, attendance approximated 9,000,000 men in uniform at the Y. M. C. A. Huts in the United States, during May, according to a report on the home war work of the Y for that month, just issued by the National War Work Council, Northeastern Department.

These visitors, the exact number being 8,909,251, wrote 4,452,736 letters on Y. M. C. A. stationery, and obtained through Y Secretaries money orders aggregating $392,416.78, $24,018.40 in New England. For their pleasure, 2,764 entertainments were given to audiences totaling $32,734, while 1,851,829 of them saw the 5,993 motion picture shows during the month, 520 of which were given in New England.

Athletic activities were carried on at all points where soldiers, sailors and marines were stationed. Participants in these sports, equipment for which was provided by the Y, totaled 1,351,817, 117,355 in New England camps. Spectators at the various games and contests reached a total of 265,744 in this Department and 2,087,695 in the United States.

Y huts were also centers of educational and religious work for enlisted men. More than 10,000 educational classes for the study of subjects of practical value in civilian life were held, with 86,498 students in attendance. The number of lectures recorded for the month is 2,116 and the attendance at these 355,074, 34,380 of whom studied in the Northeastern Department. The hut libraries lent the men 140,897 books, a total for the country and 9,394 in New England alone.

In the religious field, 4,465 meetings were held, and these were attended by 410,340 men. There were also 2,955 Bible class meetings, which 53,761 attended. Bibles and testaments totalling 105,032 were distributed. Religious workers held personal interviews with 48,473 men, and Christian decisions were made by 4,052.

Massachusetts' Girl Cited.
Paris (By Mail)—Miss Helen M. King, of Northampton, Mass., a Y. M. C. A. worker in France, has received a regimental citation from Gen. Petain for service with the 2nd Division. "She has opened a great number of canteens under bombardment," the order says in part.

A Familiar Sight at the Front

Portable motor kitchens such as this were familiar sights with many an Allied army, and a part of the diversified services the Army Y. M. C. A. performed among more than 14 million men under arms. These kitchens went wherever needed, often right up to the front line. They are complete in every respect even down to the garbage and refuse cans. The Hon. Mrs. Hoares is the woman with the veil.

BETWEEN REVOLUTIONS

MEXICANS FIND TIME TO INVEST IN U. S. S.

Laredo, Texas—Down in the land made famous by the roaring bull and revolutions, they are pulling a new one. The Mexicans are investing their money in War Savings Stamps.

Hundreds Buying Stamps.

According to reports, the Mexicans are not purchasing these securities from Uncle Sam because of the beautiful pictures on the stamps, but because they know a good thing when they see it. This became known recently, when a Mexican came into the post office at Laredo, Texas, and purchased $100 worth of War Savings Stamps. He stated that hundreds of Mexicans are purchasing War Savings Stamps as a means of safely investing their money.

GLASS ISSUES SHARP NOTICE

Warns Traffickers in War Savings Securities

Because of the numerous reports of dishonest traffic in Treasury Savings Certificates and War Savings Stamps reported to him, Secretary of the Treasury, Carter Glass, has issued a warning to holders and future buyers of these Government securities. In his warning he urges those now holding these certificates to avoid all dealers and redeem these securities only through postoffices. Secretary Glass' warning reads as follows:

To Protect Buyers.

"These securities were not intended to be negotiable and for the protection of the owners, in case their necessities required, provision was made for the redemption of War Savings certificates at post offices upon ten days' notice, at a fixed price, representing the original purchase price with an addition for interest."

"No obstacles have at any time been placed by the Treasury in the way of redemption of these War Savings Certificates, and it should be generally understood that the owner of a certificate has an absolute right to redeem it in accordance with its terms. Any case of refusal to make such redemption, if brought to the attention of the Treasury, will result in prompt action."

Prevent Payment to Rascals.
"The Government needs the money and hopes the holders of War Savings Certificates will retain them, but will place no obstacle in the way of those bonafide holders who request payment. On the other hand, the Secretary will exercise every means within the power of the Treasury, and has asked the co-operation of the Post Office Department, to prevent payment being made to those rascals who are buying the certificates and Stamps for less than their redemption value and promptly turning them in to the Government for redemption at a profit, and serves notice upon those people who are engaged in this disreputable business that this is the settled policy of the Treasury."

CHILDREN CATCH MICE EARN THRIFT STAMPS

When the cat's away the mice will play—but not at the orphanage at Oxford, N. C. At this thrifty institution the destructive little rodents are being hotly pursued by the children—not only the mice but even the big gray rats find no rest—and as they are caught they are sold for Thrift Stamps.

One Cent For Each Rat.
From Miss Mary G. Shotwell, field director for North Carolina for the War Loan Organization of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, comes the account of what the children at the Oxford Orphanage are doing. These children, she says, do not have a great deal of money, but what they get, Miss Shotwell says, they invest in Thrift Stamps. Recently rats and mice began a spring drive on the barn and the orphanage superintendent offered one cent for each rat brought to his office. The children made a splendid counter attack, catching and killing a number of the pests. Even the girls, forgetting their traditional fear of the furry little beasts, joined joyfully in the chase and a number of Thrift Stamps were bought in consequence.

Summer Contest Started.
Not alone at the Oxford Orphanage has Thrift Stamp enthusiasm developed. Miss Shotwell writes, for the Oxford Girl Scouts have sent a defiant challenge to the Oxford Boy Scouts to beat them in a summer savings contest. The boys are not expected to back down and a spirited race is expected, which, it is believed, will firmly establish the saving habit in more than one future citizen, thus not only benefiting them individually but materially bettering the community.

THE NEWTON GRAPHIC.

VOL. XLVII.—NO. 47

NEWTON MASS., FRIDAY, AUGUST 8, 1919.

TERMS, $2.50 A YEAR

NEW BRIDGE TO BE OPEN SOON

Newton Motorists Will Share in Benefits of Short Route to Boston, as Well as New Roads To be Built

With the turning over by the Metropolitan Park Commission as completed, the new North Beacon street bridge that spans the Charles River near the Watertown Arsenal, motorists of Newton and Watertown will soon be able to avail themselves of the new "short route" to Boston, for during the present month the bridge will be thrown open to traffic. During the war the Government kept the bridge and the adjacent part of North Beacon street closed as a precautionary measure.

Still more important to local automobilists, however, is the announcement that the Metropolitan Park Commission is soon to advertise for bids for the construction of Nonantum road, the boulevard that skirts the river from the foot of Charlesbank road to Brook street, at Faneuil, and which forms another link in the chain of good roads that are contemplated.

This new boulevard will branch off Nonantum road a short distance beyond the end of Charlesbank road and will run along the river bank across the brook to a point where it will be met by Williams, Maple and Jefferson streets. This will afford still more approaches to the riverway. As soon as the road is built the Newton Highway Department will resurface Jefferson street while Watertown is to similarly treat Williams and Maple streets.

In order to build the proposed extension the Park Commission must first obtain permission from the Waterways Commission, as it will be necessary to make a fill 800 feet in length and forty feet wide in the river bed. It is planned to dredge a deeper channel for pleasure boats along the river at this point and to use the material thus obtained for filling as a foundation for the new road.

With the bridge open and North Beacon street, from Beacon square to the bridge, repaved at a cost of $225,000, which work was completed a few days ago, many new routes are opened to motorists. Thus people who are in the habit of driving to Weston, Concord or Lexington, or even points beyond, and who have tired of traversing Commonwealth avenue, can drive into Watertown and through Waltham. In the other direction they can branch off at the Arsenal for the speedway and the Larz Anderson bridge, or can turn in the other direction at Union square, Allston, for Brookline.

The only drawback to perfect enjoyment of the new "route" is the wretched condition of North Beacon street between the bridge and Market street, Brighton. The City of Boston has been dilatory in considering the need of rebuilding this stretch, which is narrow and dangerous, especially where it passes under the Boston & Albany bridge. From Market street to Union square the street is in good condition. The new route will cut the running time from Newton to Boston to about a quarter of an hour by automobile.

The bridge, an up-to-the-minute structure of reinforced concrete over steel, cost $174,853. This is divided between Watertown, Boston, the County, and the State.

FIRE TRUCK IN CRASH

Auburndale Motor Hose Wagon Wrecked When Glaring Lights Confuse Driver

Glaring headlights on an automobile are blamed for an accident in Auburndale Tuesday night in which one of the motor hose wagons of the Fire Department was wrecked and its crew had narrow escapes from serious injury.

The truck, which is stationed in the Auburndale engine house, was answering an alarm for a blaze on Maple street. As driver Fred Wyeth guided his machine down Auburn street and prepared to make the sharp turn into Maple street the other automobile, which was being driven to the fire, came along Auburn street from the other direction. Its driver speeded up, with the intention of cutting into Maple street ahead of the truck.

He accomplished this but the combination of the glare from the headlights of the other machine in his eyes and his anxiety to keep from colliding with it caused Wyeth to lose control on the turn.

His truck skidded up across the sidewalk and over a six-inch granite edging that borders the house on the corner. The left forward wheel was torn off, the axle bent and the machine otherwise damaged, while the broken wheel plowed up the lawn for a depth of a foot and a length of ten feet.

None of the firemen on the truck were thrown off but Patrolman Henry Laughlin, of the local police force, who also was a passenger, was bruised about one knee, while all of the men were shaken up. The automobilist who was responsible for the crash did not stop to ascertain the result of his folly.

The fire was in the home of A. B. Joy at 53 Maple street. A curtain was blown against the flame of a gas jet and ignited the wall, causing slight damage. J. W. Compton occupies the house where the truck came to grief.

LAUNCH "NONANTUM"

Name Chosen Because of Newton's Showing in Fourth Liberty Loan

At six o'clock last evening Emergency Fleet Corporation freight steamer No. 300 took the water at the yard of the Submarine Boat Corporation at Newark Bay, N. J., and was christened "Nonantum", out of deference to Newton's showing in the Fourth Liberty Loan, as well as in the other drives.

Miss Marguerite W. Jones, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Seward W. Jones of Newton Highlands sponsored the craft. She was chosen because her father was chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee. The city was officially represented at the launching by Mr. and Mrs. Jones and by Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Richardson. Mr. Richardson was secretary of the Loan Committee.

During the war Miss Jones was active in relief work, especially in the Red Cross canteen on Boston Common. She is a graduate of the local High School and of the Chevy Chase School in Maryland.

When it was announced that Newton was to be accorded the honor of having a ship named for it the old Indian name of Nonantum was chosen as another freighter, launched at New Hampshire several months ago, already bears the name City of Newton. In the fourth loan Newton, with a quota of $5,738,000, turned in 13,000 subscriptions that totalled $8,801,600.

NEWTON POST OF AMERICAN LEGION

Mr. James J. Mullen, Jr., of Charlestown, who has been active in the formation of the American Legion, will be the speaker of the evening.

CITY TO SELL ARMY FOOD

Aldermen Appropriate $10,000 and Goods Will Go On Sale, at Cost, Monday at Nonantum, West Newton, Upper Falls and Newton Centre

On Monday morning, in Nonantum, Newton Centre, Newton Upper Falls, and West Newton, large quantities of the Government's surplus Army food will be placed on public sale by the city.

Acting on Mayor Childs' recommendation the Board of Aldermen, at a special meeting last night, appropriated $10,000 for the purchase of some of the stock now at the Army base in South Boston. The hauling of this by city trucks started today and there is a possibility that some may be sold tomorrow, although it is thought that Monday will be the earliest opportunity, because of the time necessary to perfect arrangements.

City Almoner Oswald J. McCourt will have charge, acting under the direction of the Mayor. The money is to be charged to the excess and deficiency account and will be turned back to the city treasury when the sale ends.

All goods are to be sold at cost and in the case of canned meats this means twenty per cent. less than the Government paid for the commodities. Vegetables are to be sold at the Government invoice price.

The sales will be held in the large room of the old Congregational Church at West Newton, the Stearns School at Nonantum, the Emerson School at Upper Falls, and one of the Newton Centre schools. It is planned to have police to guard the supplies both day and night until they are disposed of.

As an example of what the sales mean to the average citizen, bacon that cost the Government 51 1-2 cents a pound by the millions of pounds, will be sold at 34 and 36 cents a pound. And every article sold is guaranteed by the Government, which will make rebates in case of anything found unfit for use.

There were fourteen members of the board present and Vice President Cole presided. Mr. McCourt was present to explain the project. He told of the success that attended Waltham's venture in the field and said that the Government will not sell less than 30,000 pounds to any community.

The question was raised as to whether or not the proceeds from the first sale may be used to purchase still further quantities of supplies but Comptroller Daboll ruled that this could not be done so in case the demand warrants another special meeting will be held and further appropriations made, particularly as the Government is planning to place on sale other food stuffs such as sugar, flour, potatoes, etc.

It is figured that the cost of distribution will be nothing as volunteers, particularly women, are expected to offer their services in selling the supplies. The Public Safety Committee and the various village improvement societies will also be called on to help.

There is no limit to the amount any person may purchase. Also there is no way of preventing a dealer from buying for the purpose of re-selling, although the Government promises prosecution in any such cases. At each selling place there will be a man in charge and a cashier to keep the accounts straight. The purchaser will tell an attendant what he or she desires, this will be marked on a ticket, the cashier will stamp this ticket when the bill is paid and the ticket will be taken up by whoever fills the order. Tests have been made by city officials of samples of the food and it has been pronounced delicious. It is not felt that the sales will extend through until schools open, though if they do, adequate arrangements will be made.

Following are the prices that will prevail:

Corned Beef, No. 1, 12-oz. cans, which cost 33 1-2 cents, will be sold for 3.60 per dozen, or 30 cents per can.

Corned Beef, No. 2, 24-oz. cans, which cost 71 cents per can, will be sold for 58 cents, or $6.96 per dozen.

Corned Beef which cost $2.09 will be sold at $2.00 or $24 per dozen. Roast Beef, 6-lb. cans, costing $2.70, will be sold for $2.20 per can, or $26.40 per dozen.

Corned Beef Hash, which cost 49 cents per can, will be sold at 40 cents per can, or $4.80 per dozen.

Bacon, 12-lb. cans, will be sold at 36 cents per can, or $4.32 per dozen. The present market price of this is around 52 cents per can.

Tomatoes, 2-lb. cans, will be sold at 23 cents per can—cost 23 cents per can. Peas will be sold at 12 1-2 cents per can.

Corn will be sold for 15 1-2 cents per can.

Sight-seeing on the Rhine

"NO MORE FARM FOR MINE"

So Says Many a Doughboy After Seeing Paris as Guest of the "Y"

Paris, (By mail)—George Brown, a private in General Pershing's well-known army, is to have the privilege of seeing Paris. Fresh from a camp or some muddy French village where he has been billeted with French cows, goats and chickens in some picturesque but highly unsanitary French cottage, and with a background of history and art gained in the Hillside High School or the Atkinson Academy, what chance has George of making the most of his three days and bringing back a correct impression of the capital of the Universe?

But George Brown isn't left to his own devices. He and the hundreds of others like him have hardly time to let slip the inevitable, impudent and bitingly sarcastic, "So this is Paris," before they are caught up in one of the most comprehensive, concentrated, systematic and inclusive schemes of personally conducted, economical and rapid-fire sight-seeing ever devised. He sees Paris under American auspices at a price that would make a tourist agency patron green with envy and at a speed that causes the pre-war traveler to raise a dubious eyebrow when he hears of it.

Since Paris was opened as a leave area on February 1 there are between 800 and 900 George Browns arriving daily, to say nothing of from 400 to 500 officers, for this three days' leave. This means that there are 4,000 "strangers" in Paris every day, and I don't care if I never see France again—but Oh Gee, this Paris—just lead me to it!

Three Y. M. C. A. Secretaries With Legion of American Poles on Way to Native Land.

Paris.—When the Polish Legion, 30,000 strong, recently left Paris to fight for liberty on its native soil, three New England Yankees, Harry L. Olmstead, Danbury, Conn., Thomas F. Russell, Springfield, Mass., and Eric Kelly, Melrose, Mass., accompanied Gen. Haller, commander of the legion, and his staff, as secretaries of the Y. M. C. A.

These fighting Polish patriots, in their horizon blue uniforms, wearing the square tam-o'-shanter and the white eagle on a red patch on their collars, are in 40 cases out of 100 American citizens, and 80 percent of them speak English, while the 20 percent who have not been fully naturalized hold their first papers for American citizenship.

Last month when their commander, Gen. Haller, left Paris for his native land, accompanied by his staff, another link binding Poland to the western world was forged. The General and his party formed the advance guard of the two divisions of Poles, 30,000 in all.

A LETTER OF APPRECIATION

French Mother, Whose Children Are Being Supported by Newton People, Expresses Gratitude

The following letter was received from the mother of the two French children who are being supported by the people of Newton Upper Falls. The money for their support came from the proceeds of a lecture given by John Kendrick Bangs, supplemented by individual contributions:

Paris, June 25, 1919
Mademoiselle:—
Several days ago I received a government order which was sent to my little daughter Suzanne and my son Henry.

I beg you, Mademoiselle, to please pardon the delay in acknowledging the receipt of this check, but since, my little girl has been ill, I was unable to write sooner.

She is feeling very much better now. As soon as she has completely recovered, she will take great pleasure in thanking you herself for what you have done for her. She is 7 years old and has been attending a school for little girls for a year. She gives great satisfaction to her teacher for which I am very glad. She is a very sweet and lovable child.

My son is too young (6 years old) to be able to write to you himself and appreciate your generous gift. Therefore, I am glad to thank you personally very heartily and beg you to believe my deep obligation and thankfulness.

Kindly accept Mademoiselle, the expression of my sincerest sentiments.

GYSPIY MOTHS GAINING

State Forester Rane Says Pests Are Increasing and that Communities Should Plan Next Year's Fight Now.

Gypsy moths, rather than succumbing to the war that has been waged upon them, are increasing, according to a statement by State Forester F. W. Rane, published in the Boston Transcript. The pests have caused devastation on the Cape, in Norfolk County and along some parts of the North Shore. In Norfolk County promising pine stands have been defoliated because the owners of the wood lots did not see to it that the white birch and white oaks, which feed the pests, were removed, and the caterpillars fed on them until their teeth were strong enough to bite into the pine needles.

Mr. Rane warns that the moths have laid the foundation for a strong attack next Spring and urges that communities be no less forward in planning their attack on the pests.

People living north of Boston may be inclined to disagree with Mr. Rane as they have seen less of the gypsy moth this year than in former seasons, having been better organized to combat the invasion. They have had longer experience with it north of Boston and are more determined to hold it in check. In certain respects conditions to the north are less favorable to the development of the moth pest.

Normally the gypsy moths should have been wasting away with sickness this year, the State forester says, because they have been weakened by the recent spread of the wilt disease. Year after year they have been dying from this malady. Colonies have been wiped out of existence by it; it had become a great ally of the authorities that wage war upon leaf-eating insects. But something happened last spring to turn the scale in favor of the gypsy. First there were six weeks of dry weather, starting with a few days of high temperature. That was the kind of weather the larvae wanted for life and development, but it was not the kind that generates the wilt disease. So the gypsies hatched and fed happily, free from disease. A little later in the season the wet weather, which breeds disease among gypsy moths came, but it was too late then as the larvae had left camp. The disease began to show just before the pupation stage, which, of course, was at the end of the feeding. Concerning that phase of the situation Mr. Rane makes this comment:

"Our greatest aid in the gypsy moth control has been the far-reaching development of this wilt disease, which has been a veritable cholera among these insects, sweeping them off by the millions. It is now problematical just what the results will be next year, following a season like the present. We must expect occasional setbacks, however. This seems to be one of nature's laws."

Continuing, he makes this suggestion about the other means of combat, parasites and preparedness in the communities to begin a good fight early next spring:

"Parasites in general did not seem as numerous this season. Even the imported calasoma beetle and larvae were less abundant. Whether the severe winter of two years ago had any effect upon them is problematical. The experiments of the United States Government, division of entomology, will probably throw more light on this subject later."

"The matter of most importance is that we have a grasp of the situation as it now exists. We must all realize that a season like the present one has been very favorable to the gypsy moth and it will be strange indeed if we do not experience renewed invasions even in the older territory next year. Now is the time, therefore, to determine one's conditions. If the new egg clusters are numerous, large and healthy, have the moth officials advise you of the best way to handle them. Thinning, creosoting and spraying may be practised, but to get economic results it is important that only the necessary things be done. If the local moth superintendent and the division superintendent are consulted early they will be in a position to make definite plans. It is impossible for the two officials in charge of this work to satisfactorily do the work unless they have the necessary spraying machinery, labor, and arsenate of lead, to get results."

EDITORIAL

The accident to one of the fire trucks at Auburndale Tuesday night bears out complaints often made by officers and men of the Fire Department regarding automobilists who, drawn to the fires through curiosity, get in the way of the apparatus and take unnecessary chances, as well as delaying the arrival of the trucks at the scene of the blaze.

That no one was severely injured Tuesday night is fortunate; that a careless motorist would see fit to doubly offend, first by using glaring headlights on his car and second by racing to get ahead of the hose cart in rounding a sharp corner is deplorable. Perhaps the city officials can take steps to check this growing evil.

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor of Newton Graphic:

Possibly some of the friends of Pomroy House may have noticed that since school closed in June the ancient house on Hovey street has been closed, too.

It might interest these, and other friends, to learn that through the bounty of one of Newton's public-spirited business men, the little flock which nests there, has migrated to the shores of Lake Winnebago and is occupying a large furnished house, in Wolfboro. It stands in the midst of pine woods, where berries abound, and these—gathered by competing groups of children, and served with "real cow's milk"—form the major part of our daily diet.

This estate was once the property of Colonel Dickerson of New York. As it has been unoccupied for several years, many repairs on both house and grounds were necessary and are now being made by the owner.

It delights the former owner to know that children's voices and squeals of joy are again filling the house built in back in the "Smile of the Great Spirit."

Gathering the wild fruit for present and for future use, gives the children a happy occupation; while a daily plunge in the lake, together with the health-giving air of the woods gives physical results already apparent; results which will enable these children, offspring of the poor, to compete on equal terms throughout the coming year, with their more fortunate mates.

It goes without saying, that those who have thus far supported this work of love, will see that means, to foster the strength gained, through this wonderful gift of a summer in paradise, are not wanting.

Clara M. Hayes.

Wolfboro, N. H., August 4th.

FRUIT GROWERS' EXCURSION

Middlesex County Bureau Plans Auto Trip for August 20

The Middlesex County Bureau has completed arrangements for an automobile trip to be taken August 20th by all people in Eastern Massachusetts interested in fruit growing, for the purpose of inspecting different types of orchard methods in several of the good fruit towns in the County. In case of rain on the 20th the trip will be made on the 21st. Fruit growers and any others interested in fruit and their families are cordially invited to take in the trip.

The trip will start promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning, meeting at the Frost Farm in Littleton. The extensive Frost Farm, owned and conducted by Mr. H. L. Frost of the Frost Insecticide Company of Arlington will be inspected; then the famous Baldwin orchard of J. H. Hardy and the extensive peach and apple orchard owned by E. H. Priest. These three farms are located side by side and will prove of tremendous interest to all.

After lunch, the party will auto through West Acton to the Stow fruit section where Mr. C. D. Wetherbee's McIntosh, Gravenstein, Baldwin, and Ben Davis apple trees will be looked over. The next stop will be at the "Homestead Farm," owned by the Wetherbee's in Stow.

The Lyman Priest orchard in Glean-dale will be visited, then one in Hudson, and the party will drive thru the Marlboro fruit section, going to Sudbury, where the Ames Brothers' orchard will be inspected.

OLD FASHIONED CLAMBAKE AT NORUMBEGA PARK

"The good old days" will be revived at Norumbega Park, Saturday, August 16, when Manager Benson has arranged for a real old-fashioned clambake and cornfest of gigantic proportions. Time was, before railroad fares took to aerial science, and the high cost of living was heard of, when greater Boston folks used to enjoy a clambake now and then.

Of later years, however, clams and the many other ingredients of a real clambake have grown scarce and high, and it has been long over a decade since Greater Boston has had a look in at a real affair of this kind.

But the appetite of Greater Boston will be appeased in this direction at Norumbega August 16, if Manager Benson has his way, and he is overlooking nothing to make the affair a memorable one.

Not only will the clambake be of old fashioned size and form, but prizes will be offered for the heartiest eater, just as though the cost of living was a problem of the dim future or the forgotten past.

"Bring on your appetites" is Benson's invitation to the world at large, and the biggest eaters in the world who can get to Norumbega by August 16 may consider themselves invited.

By request we will submit Policies covering Life, Fire, Accident of all kinds, also Automobile insurance. You will not be asked to buy until you are satisfied. The Travelers' Insurance Co., Hartford, M. O'Connor, Agt., 277 Washington St., Newton Corner.

TO HOLD FIRST FIELD DAY

French Parish at Nonantum Planning Interesting Program for Saturday, August 30

People of Nonantum, regardless of their church affiliations, are lending their assistance in arranging for the first field day of the French parish of St. John the Evangelist, of which Rev. Joseph E. Robichaud is pastor. It is to be held on the new Victory field, off California street, on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, August 30.

The program will include band concerts and sports of various kinds, including baseball between the Saxony Worst Mill team and a picked nine. All sorts of fancy and useful articles will be on sale and every possible adjunct to such an affair will be presented.

The parish has been divided into three districts, each of which is to have its own booth. Bertha Kennedy is chairman of District No. 1, Mrs. Leontine Benoit of District 2 and Mrs. William Cyr of District 3.

Charles Chaisson is chairman of the general committee in charge, Albert Frechette, the secretary, and Joseph Frechette, the treasurer. Other sub-committee heads are Philip Derosiers, Antirine Derosiers, Alex Chaisson, and Henry Rousseau.

Whist parties and other forms of entertainments are being held throughout the district to aid the field day, and the keenest, good-natured rivalry exists in the various sections.

TO HONOR ITS HEROES

Nonantum Is Planning A Banquet To 300 Service Men On the Evening of September 10

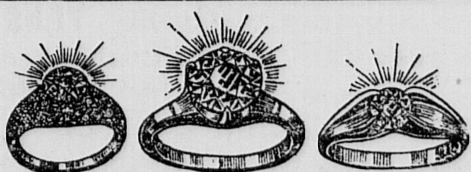

Nonantum, or that section of the city included in Precinct 1 of Ward 1, and Precinct 3 of Ward 2, sent more than 300 of its sons to the colors in the late war. On the night of September 10 those who have returned are to be shown just how proud the district is of them and how glad their neighbors and friends are to have them back home once more.

On that date a banquet is to be tendered the men in the assembly hall of the St. James School. It has been planned by the citizenry of that district, headed by Alderman Reuben Focknael.

Formality is to be dispensed with as far as possible. There will be music, of course, as well as vaudeville numbers while the banquet is being served. Speeches will be limited to brief remarks by Mayor Childs and a few others.

DEATH OF MRS. PEIRCE

Was Wife of Boston Lawyer and a Resident of Newtonville

Mrs. Alice French Peirce, wife of F. Lincoln Peirce, a Boston lawyer, died on Monday at her home at 237 Mill street, Newtonville, following a long siege of ill-health which took a more serious form two or three months ago. She was born in Brimfield on March 14, 1870, the daughter of Samuel W. French and the late Annie A. (Chamberlain) French. Her mother died when she was an infant of eight months, and she was brought up by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. French, in Palmer. From there she went to live in Newtonville, with her father, and in that place she was married on June 3, 1902, to Mr. Peirce. As a young woman Mrs. Peirce was interested in various lines of helpful work and charities, and during the recent war she worked for the Red Cross to such an extent that she greatly overtaxed her strength. Mrs. Peirce is survived by her husband, her father, Samuel W. French of Newtonville, and her stepmother, Mrs. French, as well as by a half-brother, Dr. Robert W. French of Malden, under whose personal care she had been during the final months of her illness.

Funeral services were held at her home on Wednesday afternoon, with Edward H. Keach of Newtonville, a Christian Science reader, officiating. Burial was in Newton Cemetery. The bearers were Harry D. Cabot, Percy R. Ziegler, and Horace W. Orr, all of Newtonville, and Charles Peirce of Springfield.

Law of Life.

A thought, good or evil; an act, in time a habit, so runs life's law; what you live in your thought world, that, sooner or later, you will find objectified in your life.—Ralph Waldo Trim.

PETROGRAD CITY OF MISERY

Incident Recorded by Maxim Gorky Reveals Frightful Conditions In the Great Russian Capital.

Maxim Gorky has written several sketches of human interest bearing on events in the Russian revolution, which appear in a recent number of the Sueddeutschen Monatshefte. Among them the following adventure of a young woman in the streets of Petrograd late at night, written in Gorky's characteristic style:

A young woman tells me:
"I was with my sick sister until late and left her at midnight to go home, just when all the lights in the streets were extinguished. The streets were dark and ghostly figures stood in doorways—one could not tell whether they were watchmen or robbers. As I hurried along I suddenly heard heavy steps behind me. I looked around fearfully. A man in military uniform, slender and with pale face and hollow eyes, was following me."

"There was nobody else in sight and no signs of a cab. The man continued following me like fate. My God, I thought, is he going to rob me or, perhaps, do something even worse? I took my gold bracelets from my arms and hid them in folds of my dress. He approached me, and in a soft, sad musical voice, said:

"Madam."
"I made no reply, but hurried on. He, however, kept pace beside me. 'You are afraid of me?'
"Leave me, leave me!" I cried.
"He laughed—a forced, tragic laugh, and said:

"Don't you see I simply want to ask for alms? I have not had a bite to eat in two days. I am an officer and a respectable man. But, by God! if I don't get anything to eat I will not be responsible for myself. Help me, I know you can."

"I looked steadily at him now. Never will I forget those hollow, hungry eyes and the teeth showing under a small black mustache. I opened my purse and put some money in his extended palm."

"But where are you going to get something to eat at this time of the night? I said. 'All stores and shops are closed. Come with me and I will prepare some coffee for you. I also have some bread.'"

"He shook his head.
"No," he said sadly, "I cannot do that; I want no one ever to know."

"He bowed gracefully and stepped back.
"And what will you do for food when this little money is spent? What will you do tomorrow?"

"I thank you. Pardon me—oh, tomorrow? Tomorrow!"

"He kept on repeating the word as he left me, and soon his figure was like a ghost disappearing into the darkness of a tomb."

Canadians and the Arctic.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson is a Canadian Icelander. He is of subarctic descent, born in Manitoba. His name does not appear in the exploration records of any "Who's Who" published in Canada. He is known to most people as the man who discovered the blond Eskimos. But this was the least achievement, says the Canadian Courier. What Stefansson and Captain Bernier, Canadians, have done most of all is to demonstrate that Canada has an independent original claim to the fruits of exploration in her own share of the arctic. Canada has the world's record for arctic coast line. Russia and Scandinavia have all that Canada has not. Canada's right of eminent domain in the arctic is marked by the British flag; and if his advice is followed by the government trade may follow the flag, even in the arctic. When we come to commercializing the muskox the Peace River valley will have become the middle of Canada.

One More Great Diamond.

Since Captain Wells picked up the 20-ounce crystal on Tom Cullinan's field in the Transvaal in 1905, the Cullinan diamond weighing 3,025½ grains uncut, there has been no new addition to the roll of the world's big diamonds until the just reported finding of a 388½ carat stone at the Jagersfontein mine on Orange river. This is a true "Jager" in the language of the trade, a soft blue-white, and said to be nearly perfect. What cutting will do with it can hardly be guessed. In cut form the weight of historic diamonds, barring the Cullinan, ranges up from the far-famed Kohinoor, 106¼ carats, to the Nizam, 277 carats. The Jubilee is 239, the Victoria 288½, the Regent or Pitt, 140.

The Great Bell at Metz.

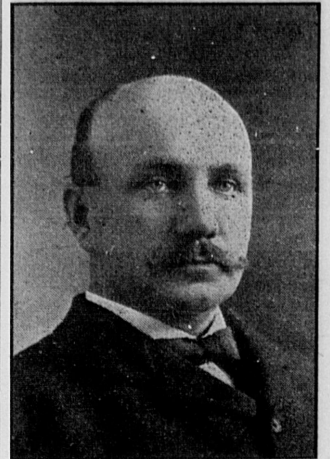

As for Metz, there was a sound in the fortress town which dominated all others. La Mute, the great cathedral bell, pealed forth victory and deliverance. She rang the knell of the town in 1870, when the Prussians came marching through her streets, and ever since every child has known that if deliverance came, then would La Mute be heard ringing Lorraine back to France. For over 400 years La Mute has rung for all the joys and sorrows of the Messins, for she is the last of a long line of famous bells cast in the Metz of medieval France.—Christian Science Monitor.

Adaptability.

"You used to be something of a singer."
"Yes," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop. "An' prohibition won't stop me, I'm learning to warble 'The Old Oaken Bucket' instead of 'Landlord, Fill the Flowing Bowl.'"

Wild Goose Hides Eggs.

The domestic goose is derived from wild species. The pioneer settlers saw their domestic geese run wild in bushes and almost revert to their primitive state. Now, the goose constructs a very pretentious nest on the ground. The eggs are so large and white that they would attract unwelcome notice at a considerable distance. To avoid this dangerous publicity the eggs are carefully covered over when the owner leaves them even for a short time.

THE QUEEN OF BERRIES.

Strawberries may now be produced throughout the summer and autumn months in northern

United States. The plants set in the spring will bear in the fall of the same year. The everbearing variety is very hardy and resists disease, bearing until late fall when heavy frosts come.

When the berries first arrive from the South they are too expensive for general use, but a few for a garnish to puddings or ices will satisfy the appetite for the delicious fruit. One does not wish to lose the joy of the home-grown berries by indulging too freely in the early ones. It is more economical, saves shipping expense, and is all round more loyal in war time to eat of our own products.

An angel food baked in a square tin, then cut in squares heaped with sweetened whipped cream and crushed strawberries, makes a dessert par excellence.

Strawberry Salad.—This is a delightful way of serving the berry. Cut large fine berries in half, serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing, using four tablespoonsful of oil to one of lemon juice, a bit of salt, paprika, powdered sugar and a dash of cayenne.

Strawberry Ice Cream.—Add a pint of sugar to a quart of cream with a teaspoonful of vanilla and freeze; when partly frozen open the freezer, add a pint of strained strawberry juice from berries which have been put through a sieve. Let stand four hours to ripen.

Strawberry Tapioca.—Wash and cook a cupful of tapioca, adding a pint of water and cooking until clear and soft. When cold add a quart of strawberries sliced; serve with sugar and cream.

Strawberry Pie.—Make a pastry shell and bake it. Fill the shell with sliced berries, mixed with sugar; heap over it sweetened whipped cream and dot with sliced berries. Serve cut as any pie.

Strawberries crushed with sugar mixed with cream make delicious cake filling.

American Sailor Tells of Work on Destroyers.

Practically Constant Duty, Cheerfully Performed, Was the Lot of the Finest Body of Men That Ever Wore the Sailors' Blue.

H. B. Haviland of the staff of the New York Times enlisted in the navy soon after the United States entered the war. After additional training at Brest, France, Mr. Haviland was assigned to the destroyer McDougal, on which he has since served. In a recent letter he gives this description of his trip to France and life on the destroyer:

"There was constant work for the destroyer sailors. The ship upon which I am serving was at sea about twenty-six days out of the month of August. That shows that there was no one playing the role of 'slacker.' The success of the shipping has been largely due to the watchfulness and efficiency of the officers and men of the destroyers. Notice the accounts of shipping sunk since the United States navy has been on the job—comparatively few, and the loss of life low, for which we are all very thankful.

"Many times we have brought transports with soldiers aboard safely into port, and remarked that where we left off the soldiers would keep right on and on. Their work was practically just beginning—many would never return, many more would return crippled, sadly disfigured, many whose lives would be worthless after the war, and we were sorry for them. Yet it is a strange conflicting feeling) we were happy for them to think that they were going bravely forward to whatever their fate might be, without hesitation and with a true spirit, willing to do and die for the honor and future welfare of their country—the future, perhaps, of the whole world. It is wonderful when you think about it. We have experienced a great many interesting, exciting instances, but it would take up too much space to relate them.

"We returned today from a run to Liverpool, and after many, many nights at sea without a ray of light visible, it seems so good to realize that you are traveling again with lights burning at the masthead, and no fear of the Hun launching a torpedo ('pickle' is the navy term) at us from the darkness 'out there.'

"The crew of one of the repair ships at this base 'chipped in,' along with many of the men from the destroyers, to give a regular Thanksgiving dinner to 150 of the poor children in Brest. The plan was disclosed when one day tin buckets (large ones) were found hanging here and there about the deck and in the compartments, with small slots in a cover soldered to the rim. A sign read something like this: 'Come on, boys, drop 'em in and give the kiddies a good Thanksgiving feed.'

"It was not so much the amount that was given, nor the good time that the kiddies had putting the turkey, cranberry sauce and pudding away. But beneath all this it showed that the heart of the Yankee sailor is in the right place. The spirit in which it was done is the best in the world."

Birthday of "Old North."
With the ancient bells, first of all church bells in North America to be cast for the British empire, ringing joyfully and the historic memorial bust of Washington looking down in benignant calm from its green-wreathed niche, the Old North church observed its one hundred and ninety-fifth anniversary recently, observes the Boston Globe. To make the day even more memorable it was also marked by the return of the historic communion set and the parish record books to a resting place on church property.

For years these treasures of the oldest church in Boston have been moved from private home to bank vault and back again. Rev. W. H. Dewar, rector of the church, declared in his address that he believed they have been kept, at times, in every part of Boston. Now they are safe in a fireproof, burglarproof vault, built on the property, and the communion service will be used every month. The service was given to the church by George II in 1733.

Move to Save Potash.

The work of analyzing the raw materials and slags from the blast-furnace industry to determine if possible the amount of potash now lost in that industry which might be collected for fertilizer has been carried on by the United States bureau of soils during the last year and is expected to be completed during the current fiscal year. It is evident from the work so far done that a very large amount of potash can be made available from this source if suitable collecting apparatus is installed. The bureau is also conducting research work in the commercial collection of potash from cement kilns.

Work of Bureau of Soils.
During the last year the United States bureau of soils carried on co-operative work in its soil survey with the office of Indian affairs in Arizona and Utah, with the reclamation service on two projects in Wyoming, and with the bureau of plant industry in Maine.

Why War is Costly.
It is estimated that two tons of ammunition were fired on the western front for each soldier killed, captured or seriously wounded.

ACQUIRES NEWTON LANDMARK

Arthur H. Coburn of Brookline to Renovate and Occupy Chestnut Hill Dwelling Built in 1690

One of the oldest houses now standing in Newton, for many years owned by Samuel Woodman, and situated at the corner of Hammond and Beacon streets, has been sold to Arthur H. Coburn of Brookline. This house was built about 1690. It contains all the early features, and, in these many years, has been preserved in splendid condition. Some of the old quaint details, such as doorways, construction of oak beams, mantles and hardware, duplicate those found in some of the well known seventeenth-century houses still standing in Boston and its vicinity.

The land conveyed with the house contains an area of about 16,970 square feet. In conjunction with Joseph Everett Chandler, the architect and student of Colonial work, Mr. Coburn will renovate, improve and remodel this remarkable old house for his own occupancy.

FATALLY HURT BY TRAIN

Cambridge Man, Found On Boston & Albany Tracks, Dies At Newton Hospital

Injuries received beneath the wheels of a train caused the death at the Newton Hospital Tuesday of Laurie Dunn, thirty-four years old of Highland avenue, Somerville. He lived but a short time after being taken to the hospital by the police.

Early Tuesday morning Patrolmen Dolan and Jenkins heard groans coming from the tracks between Newton and Newtonville. They found Dunn helpless, with his right leg nearly severed and his head badly injured. It is supposed that he fell from a freight train and was run over by the cars. He recovered consciousness long enough to make known his name and address.

FIVE ARRESTS FOR DRUNKENNESS

Jamaica ginger as the motive power caused the arrest of five men for drunkenness in the past five days, this number of arrests exceeding the total number for the thirty-one days of July. Newton's record, although small, is not an enviable one for drunkenness, or, at least, arrests for that offense, have fallen to practically none in other sections of the Commonwealth.

TEN-CENT FARES IN EFFECT

Middlesex & Boston System Given Right To Try New Plan for Three Months—South Side Mainly Affected

The Public Service Commission having granted the Middlesex & Boston officials the right to try the new plan for three months, ten-cent fares went into effect on some of the lines on Monday. This unit of fare obtains on the Lake street-Commonwealth avenue line, the Lake street-Newton Highlands line, the Watertown-Needham line, the Newton-Framingham line west of Lower Falls, and of course the much-discussed Newtonville-Newton Centre line.

Although the South Side is affected the most by the change it really applies to all sections of the city as a person transferring to a ten-cent from a seven-cent line must pay three cents for the transfer. Free transfers are issued on all ten-cent lines.

NOMINATION PAPERS FILED

Four Aspirants for Representatives' Seats from this District Among Those Whose Papers are Certified

Although the time for filing nomination papers for the State primaries on September 23 does not expire until late this afternoon enough have been received and certified by the Registrar of Voters to indicate that this district is doing its share to keep the political pot boiling. As usual the greatest interest attaches to the contests for the three seats of the Representatives from the Fourth Middlesex District. Leland Powers of Newtonville will not return to office next year. The other two incumbents, Bernard Early of Newton Lower Falls and Abbott B. Rice of Newton Centre, have filed papers. Others whose papers are in are John C. Brimblecom of Newton and Alderman Reuben Forknall of Nonantum, while it is rumored that still others are to enter the fight.

Another matter that will be of great interest to Newton voters will be the question of acceptance of the two-platoon system for members of the Fire Department, as papers have been filed to have this question placed on the State ballot.

Thomas Weston, Jr., has filed papers for another term as State Senator and papers placing Richard H. Long in nomination as Democratic candidate for Governor have also been recorded. J. Mott Halliwell of Chestnut Hill has filed papers for the office of Attorney General. Others recorded are those of Governor Coolidge and Nathan A. Tufts, district attorney of Middlesex county. Erson B. Barlow of Lowell has filed papers for the office of county commissioner and Major Fred P. Barnes of Newton seeks the office of associate commissioner.

Other papers filed up to this morning include the following:
Republican Ward Committees:
Ward 2, W. Lloyd Allen, Charles R. Cabot, Clarence G. McDavitt, Rupert C. Thompson, William B. Arnold; Ward 3, Dwight L. Woodberry, Henry F. Cate, George S. Fuller, William B. Baker, Arthur C. Republican delegates to State Convention:

STIR OVER SUNDAY GOLF

Local Clubs Affected by Activity of State Police, and Test Case is Awaited

Several hundred members of the Brae Burn Country Club, the Woodland Golf Club, Albemarle, Chestnut Hill, and Commonwealth Clubs are affected by the recent activity on the part of the State and local police toward Sunday golfing.

Chief Mitchell has served warning to those who play on Sunday that the law, which has been in abeyance, is to be enforced, although it is pointed out that the move is not purely a local one.

It is probable that there will be violations of the law, however, until a test case is made and pending this test case no further activity by the State authorities will be in evidence.

Both Chief Plunkett of the State Police, and Attorney General Atwill have expressed doubt as to whether a man who plays golf by himself on Sunday is violating the law. Several years ago a lower court judge in Middlesex county ruled that a man driving a ball around a course on Sunday without competition was not engaged in a game and was not violating the Sunday law. Recently, however, a Worcester county lower judge found a youth guilty of violating the Sunday law, although the youth was by himself, engaged in "knocking flies" to himself with the aid of a bat and ball.

As to this phase of the situation, the attorney-general yesterday made the following statement:

"I have grave doubts if merely knocking a golf ball around one's back yard is a violation of the criminal statute prohibiting games and sports on the Lord's day. The situation would seem to be the same where the act is done in one's field or pasture."

"Of course, if there is an element of contest in the act, then the probabilities are that it would be held to be within the statute. Each case necessarily is largely dependent upon the facts therein, and the facts, under our system, are to be determined by a judge of the lower court, in the first instance, or by a jury upon appeal."

POLICE SEEK INCREASE

Are Preparing Petition in Which They Give Reasons for Asking More Pay

The patrolmen of the local Police Department are preparing a petition soon to be presented to Mayor Childs and the Board of Aldermen in which they ask an increase in pay. At present the men who have served at least four years receive $1500 a year or $4.10 a day. In the petition they ask that this be the rate paid to first-year men and that the pay increase $100 a year until the men who have served the city four years or more are receiving $1800.

Claims as to the high cost of living are too frequent and too true to need comment but the Newton policemen point out other reasons why they should get the increase they seek. Fully two-thirds are family men and many either own or are paying for their homes. Five years ago the police were paid $3 a day and city laborers received $1.50 a day. Now, it is claimed, the laborers are paid proportionately as high as the policemen and, in addition, have no uniforms to buy; many of the police are skilled mechanics or artisans and the exceedingly high wages being paid members of the crafts they formerly worked in are apt to lure some good policemen away from city service.

As regards uniforms an overcoat, at present, costs $50 and used to cost, five years ago, $25; a dress blouse now costs $35, as against $18 formerly; a regular blouse formerly costing $13, now costs $22; trousers are now $14 a pair and formerly cost $7; helmets now cost $4, as against $2.10 formerly, and winter caps are now priced at $3.50 where formerly they were $2.

And the men point out that clothing bought under the old prices was good for two or three years while the present goods are not guaranteed and often fade within the first fortnight. Furthermore, it is stated, the Metropolitan Park Police are paid $1615 a year and are furnished with their uniforms.

To further substantiate the justice of their claim the local guardians of the peace state that Newton's tax rate is low compared with those of other neighboring communities and that the

TO MARRY NAVAL OFFICER

Miss Madeleine Everett Will Be Bride of Lieutenant Commander Loder

Announcement is made by Mrs. Charles Everett of Newton Centre of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Madeleine Everett, to Lieutenant Commander Ames Loder, United States Navy. Miss Everett is a member of the Vincent Club and the 1913 Sewing Circle. She was presented at a tea given in her honor by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Everett of 49 Commonwealth avenue. Her brother, Charles Everett, is a graduate of Harvard, 1905, and the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. He has just received his discharge from the Military Intelligence Division of the Army. Lieutenant Commander Loder, who is the son of Albert J. Loder of East Orange, N. J., is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, 1911, and has just returned from foreign service. His brother, Robert Loder, who is of the 1915 class of Middlebury College, recently came back from France with the 307th Field Artillery.

YOUTHFUL RUNAWAYS CAUGHT

A carefully-laid plan of two Greek boys to tour the country was disrupted by patrolman Feeley early Sunday when he took undue interest in the youthful tourists as they passed through West Newton. They said they were Christos Kalbros, 14, and George Korios, aged 16, both of Peabody. Christos sells tacks and George earns his living by laying carpets. Each had a good supply of money and they admitted that they were runaways.

They planned to work day by day on farms that they passed and thus earn their meals while seeing the country. The police thought this rather a poor idea so they notified Peabody and two anxious fathers soon called for the wanderers.

BOHEMIA HIVE OF INDUSTRY

Little Country, Now to Be Given Opportunity to Progress, Has Been Much Misunderstood.

Not one of the little countries which have come into being as independent states, or parts of new nations, since the triumph of the allies, is more often misunderstood in America than Bohemia has always been. The very name has implied, for many persons, the unconventional ways of artists, the gypsying of vagrants, and the impatience of restraint which is supposed to characterize countries remote from great centers of trade and industry and rather backward in their business interests.

But Bohemia is a wonderful hive of hard-working and skilled artisans. It is one of the most densely populated countries in the world, exceeding, in that respect, Germany, Austria-Hungary, as a whole or in either half of the old monarchy, and even Italy. The number of inhabitants, in proportion to the area, is 75 per cent greater than it is in France. Bohemia is almost exactly half as large as Ohio, but its population, nearly 7,000,000 at the beginning of the war, is about 35 per cent greater than that of this state.

There is no other division of Austria-Hungary, taking into the reckoning the entire territory formerly in that dual monarchy, which is equal to Bohemia in manufactures. It is a notable center of iron and steel production. Its textiles are an important factor in the trade of Europe, and its glassware, china, sugar, beer, chemicals, paper, tobacco, lace, toys and many other products of skill and patient labor are widely known. Necessarily, the commerce of so busy a country is large and far-reaching.

All that Bohemia needs is the opportunity which has come at last to prove the capacity of its people for great progress beyond the level they have already attained.

MAKE YOUR OWN DIAGNOSIS

All One Needs to Determine Physical Condition Is to Test by Clinical Thermometer.

The best way of asking a friend how he is, is not to say flippantly: "How are you blowing?" or even "How's your liver?" but simply and sufficiently: "How's your temperature?" According to your temperature you are well or ill, alive or nearly dead. In fact, there are only ten degrees between blooming health and certain death, observes a writer in London Answers.

The temperature of the air has nothing to do with the temperature of the body, which is the temperature of the blood. The Eskimo in health sends the clinical thermometer to the same spot as the Negro in Timbuctoo, viz., 98 degrees Fahrenheit. The temperature of the air will sometimes vary 40 degrees in the same day, but if the temperature of the body goes up two degrees, you are ill; four degrees, you are very ill; six degrees, and the doctor is very anxious; eight degrees, and you are at death's door.

Anybody can take a temperature, even his own. It is a great safeguard to possess and use a clinical thermometer. Ninety-eight degrees, all right; 100 degrees, stay at home; 101 degrees, go to bed; 102 degrees, send for the doctor. Anything higher than that is a doctor's job.

The Economy General.

Gen. Sir Henry Horne, "the man who took Douai," has been called the economy general through skillful manipulation of men and his small casualty list. His name will be handed down to posterity as the man who invented the "creeping barrage" system, which came into universal use on the battlefield. With the assistance of this barrage, he captured Fricourt, Mametz and Douai, gaining maximum results at minimum cost. His losses in men and material on each occasion were very light.

General Horne belongs to the Old Contemptibles, and he saw service also in the South African war. His proudest moment during that campaign was when General Cronje surrendered to him.

May Throw Light on History.

A number of archeologists from the Tokyo Imperial university and elsewhere are making excavations in the compound of the Hakusan shrine, Toyama prefecture, said to be a most valuable storehouse of material for historical study. Doctor Shibata of the Tokyo university is quoted as saying: "We may discover some clues as to whether our forefathers came from Corea or from Saghalien." At the place mentioned a number of bones of women and children are being unearthed.

Clemenceau, Playwright.

Like many another Parisian of politics, Monsieur Clemenceau is interested in the finer things of theater and, like Waldeck-Rousseau before him, assiduously frequents it even though he happens to be prime minister of France. In his years of leisure he has dabbled also in the writing of plays and two of his pieces, "Les Requins" and "Le Voile du Bonheur," have found place on the stage.—Boston Transcript.

Held at a Distance.

"Father," said the ex-crown prince, "why do you keep the title 'count'?" "As a sort of compromise, I feel that very few people are going to like me well enough to want to call me by my first name."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Demonstration Home Garden

A little girl in Somerville was working in her school garden one day last week when she noticed that the leaves of her tomato vines had been eaten off during the night. Her first thought was of the goats that were kept across the street. She ran frantically to where the supervisor was working and reported her loss. Upon inspection of the vines by the supervisor, however, it was found that the goats were nothing more than tomato worms. But the tomato vines looked as if some animal had breakfasted upon them, such a ragged appearance did they present.

The tomato worm is, perhaps, the largest caterpillar with which the home gardener has to contend. It is a vivid green worm measuring three to four inches in length and nearly one-half inch in diameter. It seldom appears in large numbers, therefore it is not particularly dangerous. Nevertheless, it does no good and should be destroyed when found. This caterpillar usually clings underneath the middle rib of the leaf and feeds on each side of it. It is quite difficult to locate these worms so completely do they hide themselves among the vines. Hand picking is the easiest means of control.

The tomato fruitworm is another caterpillar that usually attacks the tomato crop about this time of the year. It is different from the tomato worm and only attacks the ripened fruit by eating into it. This caterpillar is about two inches in length and is generally of a brownish-grey color. The arsenate of lead spray is recommended for its control.

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre, there will be shown five vaudeville acts, all headliners, including Robert Hyman and Virginia Mann, presented by Alan Dinehart, in a comedy sketch "Five Thousand a Year"; the moral of this act is that woman's intuition is farther reaching than any business system that has ever contrived and a man would do better by leaning on his wife's wits than upon his own wisdom; the cast is a very capable one and the lines are excellently handled; Walters and Walters premier ventriloquists; Earl and Mullen, singing and dancing; Juggling DeLisle; and Black and White, a gymnastic in "Morning Exercise."

Many of the scenes in Norma Talmadge's latest Select Pictures "The Way of a Woman" which comes to this theatre the first part of next week, are taken in New York.

There will be an organ recital by Harry Rodgers.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Dorothy Gish will be shown in "Nugget Nell." There will be five new acts of vaudeville.

Grand Sacred Concert every Sunday night at 8.00 P. M.

TREMONT THEATRE—There has been a notable line of Henry W. Savage productions dating back to the happy "Prince of Pilsen" days, and now again he comes to the fore with an attraction that instantly stamped itself upon the public mind as deserving of the highest approval. And to make the relation of things more perfect the attraction is at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, where so many of the history-making pleasure productions obtained their first start. The title of the new musical comedy is "See Saw," and since its first presentation two weeks ago there has not been a single performance that has not had its capacity audiences. The story of the comedy has been taken from Earl Derr Biggers' popular story, "Love Insurance," the stage version having been made by Mr. Biggers himself, who also turned his clever hand at the writing of the lyrics. The music was composed by Louis A. Hirsch, who stands today as one of the most popular American composers. Mail orders will be carefully filled. Matinees are on Wednesdays and Saturdays, the Wednesday afternoon performance being popularly priced.

WILBUR THEATRE—As usual, the Wilbur Theatre has been the first theatre in Boston to open its doors for the regular season, and the customary policy, which has proven so successful in past seasons—inducting the new theatrical year with the latest New York Princess Theatre success—has been followed. A month ago F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott brought to this smartest of theatres in Boston the 6th Princess Theatre musical comedy success, "Oh, My Dear," direct from a run of seven months in New York. Crowded attendances have been the rule at every performance, and the second month of the Boston engagement, which begins Monday next, August 18th, bids fair to prove equally popular. Like the former productions, "Oh, My Dear" is the work of Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse as to book and lyrics. This year the musical score is the work of Louis A. Hirsch. The cast is headed by many well-seasoned and well-known players, and according to the critics of New York, the entire production is better in every way than its five predecessors.

Polarine

The Garage Manager's Advice

"Well, I tell you, Mr. Smith, I don't think it pays to fool with inferior mixtures. If I were you I'd use Polarine. There's a good high quality oil that'll keep your car smooth-running and powerful. Regulated properly, it's the right oil for any car."

"You see Polarine puts an oil film between your cylinder walls and your piston heads which keeps every bit of power right behind the pistons."

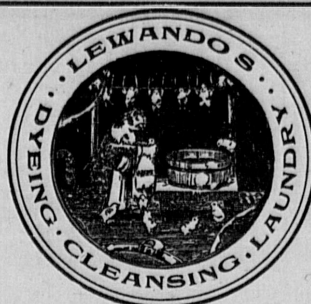

"No, indeed—Polarine never breaks down when the motor gets hot. It keeps its body at the highest cylinder heat—and it protects your bearings and all moving parts against wear."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

The oak tree's boughs once touched the grass,
But every year they grow
A little farther from the ground,
And nearer to the blue.

MORE COOLING DRINKS.

For drinks that are both nourishing and refreshingly cool, egg lemonade is probably the most popular. Make the lemonade in the usual way, add a beaten egg and serve, well iced, not forgetting a pinch of salt to remove the flat taste of the egg.

Koumis.—Koumis is another food drink which is most wholesome. It was originally made in Arabia from mare's milk, but is commonly made by using cow's milk. It is most easily digested; often a weak stomach which cannot digest any other food will retain koumis. To make it heat a quart of milk to 70 degrees or lukewarm, add a third of a yeast cake dissolved in one and a half tablespoonsful of water, add two tablespoonsful of sugar; place in bottles after mixing well and tie down the corks. Let stand ten hours in a warm place for the yeast to grow and cause fermentation, then place on ice to check it.

Mint Cup.—Express the juice from five lemons, using a glass squeezer; add the leaves from a dozen stalks of mint, one and a half cupsful of sugar or honey and a half cupful of water; cover and let stand 30 minutes. Just before serving pour into a pitcher over a large piece of ice and add three bottles of chilled ginger ale. Put a sprig of mint in each glass when serving.

Pineapple Lemonade.—Make a syrup by boiling together one cupful of sugar and two cupsful of water for ten minutes; add the juice of three lemons and a can of grated pineapple; cool, strain and add a quart of ice water.

Raspberry shrub makes a most delicious drink; add a tablespoonful of the shrub to a glass of ice water to serve it.

Fruit beverages are cooling and slightly stimulating; as there is no limit to the variety of combinations one may always have something different.
Iced Tea.—To make tea that is palatable prepare the tea, scalding the pot and pouring fresh boiled water over the leaves, using a tablespoonful to a pint of water; strain over ice and chill.
Serve as soon as cold enough with a bit of lemon, a cube of sugar and a sprig of mint.

When Ben Franklin Was a Boy

B. Rene Bach, great-great-grandson of Benjamin Franklin

The price of bread two centuries ago was a penny a loaf.
That was two cents, which seems mighty cheap. But one should remember that in those days the purchasing power of money was far greater than now.

Thus it happened that Benjamin Franklin, a boy of seventeen, on arriving in Philadelphia, was able to buy three loaves for threepence; and with them he walked up Market Street from the wharf, holding one under each arm and eating the third. An hour later he gave two of them to a woman and her child who had been fellow-voyagers up the Delaware.

Franklin Generous.
Franklin was always generous. In fact, he was often imprudently so.
During the period of his early struggles he was frequently in serious financial plight because of lending or giving money to friends poorer than himself.

Where his own expenditures were concerned he was always frugal, saving what he could out of his wages as a printer, while his fellow-workers spent theirs as fast as they got them, or faster. In this way it came about that, while a mere youngster in a printing office, he lent them money every week.

Acted as Banker.
Though the earnings of most of them were greater than his, he was the capitalist. By the middle of each week they were penniless and came to him for loans to carry them over until pay day. He would accept no interest, but each Saturday, on getting their money, they gave back to him what they owed—only to repeat the borrowing three or four days later.

Of course, his hoard was really very small. But he was the "moneyed" man. As such, he stood on a plane above his fellow-workmen not merely in an economic sense, but in the respect he was able to command from his employer and from others. Relatively, he was a person of importance. Nobody who knew him could escape recognition of the fact that here was a young man sure to get ahead in the world.

Men Wanted For Jobs.
This is exactly the kind of man that is sought by employers today.
They need him in their business, and he never has to look long for a job.
In fact, the job seeks him.

The employer of today keeps watchful "tab" on the habits of his employees. His confidence in the man who spends all he gets as fast as he gets it is always qualified. He knows; it is his business to know.
On the other hand, the man who saves—who puts part of his earnings away right along—unmistakably has character and ambition. He is marked for promotion.

With this idea in mind, employees are buying War Savings Stamps and Thrifty Stamps. It is an easy way to begin, and the plan has been found to work out admirably. The wage-earners form little "societies" for the purpose among themselves, each member contributing so much a week. This obligation for self-help

U. S. WILL DOUBLE WEALTH BY 1934

That in the next 15 years the total wealth of the United States, now approximately $200,000,000,000 will be doubled, is the prediction made by the officials of the United States Treasury Department, who are now urging people to invest in Thrift and War Savings Stamps so that they may share in this increase of wealth.
Last year over $18,000,000,000 was produced in this country. This is called by economists "net income." This increase in wealth the Treasury Department states was abnormal, but that we may reasonably estimate that in the next 15 years the new wealth produced will be as great as the present total wealth of the nation.

YOUTHFUL AUTOIST IN CRASH

The youthful driver is Francis Ryan, son of Jeremiah Ryan of 157 Pine street, and he was so badly cut and bruised that treatment at the hospital was necessary.

The truck is the property of Henry Bjorkman, vegetable peddler, who lives at 175 Pine street and the police are investigating to learn just why the boy was given charge of the machine, contrary to law. It is said that Ryan, accompanied by his 16-year-old brother, William, had driven Bjorkman from his home to the street car line and were returning when the crash occurred. Witnesses said the truck was hustling along at a lively rate.

WILL LIVE FOREVER

Glory Won by American Marines Imperishable.

Famous Prussian Guard Fled Before Them at Chateau-Thierry as Sheep Before Wolves, and World Was Saved.

From Arbelia to Argonne; from the day when Alexander's phalanx bore down the Persian lines to the day when the American marines scattered the best of Germany like smoke, the imperial guard of mighty sovereigns has been the keystone, the central fabric, the very basis of military power. Destroy the guard and the morale of every royal army vanishes like mist before the sun.

Fierce was the fighting on Arbelia's plain, and vain the onsets of the Macedonians until the Persian guard gave way—and night saw the Persian empire in the young invader's hands. Spain's restless infantry shook the earth till the Spanish guard was mown down by Conde at Rocroy.

At Austerlitz the Russian ranks held fast till the czar's gigantic guards were cut through and scattered. And the soldiers at Waterloo, outflanked, outnumbered, would not yield till the guard gave back upon the fatal slope of Mont St. Jern. So went the story through the ages—and the last chapter of imperial guards and guardsmen's glory is a fitting epilogue.

Down through the ravaged fields of France came the imperial guard of Prussia, and the weary, wornout men of France gave ground in grim despair. The guard was coming. The guard was conquering. Paris in a few more hours, and victory—a Prussian peace, won by William's matchless guards.

Then, across the wheat fields and hills, came the American marines—youthful fighting devils from overseas. What to them was the glory of the guard? What cared they for the tall, imposing figures, the uniforms, the machine-like advance of William's incomparables? The American marines went into a sheepfold—and the fate of all the world hung in the trembling balance as the struggle raged.

"We saw a few black dots break from the guard and struggle down the hill; then a dark blot on the hillside; then the guard reeled and its whole great mass came staggering down. All is lost—the guard recoils." So spoke the historians who watched at Waterloo.

So it was at Chateau-Thierry. First a few gray dots broke from the far side of the wood; then more and more; then, panic stricken, reeling, whipped, the Prussian guard came madly out and onward and away. The guard recoiled—the day was lost—Germany was lost—the empire of the world was lost.

When the guard breaks, the doom of any king is sealed. It was so three thousand years ago, and what may be the last tale of the wreckage of an imperial guard is but the final confirmation of the old, old story.

In French and in English.

An amusing verbal war has arisen over the propriety, meaning and extent of the French phrase "mon Dieu." No two interpreters appear to be able to agree. The phrase in English would be "my God!" but the shades of association connected with the French form and with the English form differ so broadly that exactly equivalent expressions and usages of the phrase are difficult to reach. In French it may be an innocent exclamation, but in English-speaking lands it may be flat blasphemy. The variance seems to spring from the varying religious experiences of France and England after the Protestant reformation. In medieval Europe the presence and action of God in the religious plays habituated the populace to speak of him quite familiarly, and the sense of reverence for his name grew faint. In England, however, on account of the influence of Puritanism and then of Methodism, a great reverence for his name arose, and use of the term "my God!" became distasteful to fine natures. But "mon Dieu!" somehow sounds inoffensive.—Spokane Spokesman Review.

Spitzbergen Possibilities.

"Spitzbergen (to the north of Russia) ought to be a region overflowing with animal life and the resort of countless millions of birds beyond those that actually breed there today," said Sir Martin Conway at the Royal Geographical society, London. "It ought to give occupation and an excellent livelihood to a considerable number of hardy folk, who, if they lived and fed rightly and were properly housed, should not find the climate too extreme for a quite tolerable human life."

The ravages of irresponsible hunters, added Sir Martin, ought to be restrained by a small force of honest and efficient naval police equipped with a few seagoing motor launches.

Gas as Fuel.

Experiments in England with ordinary producer gas as a fuel for internal combustion engines has shown that as the size and power of the engine increase the loss on producer gas diminishes. The fact that coal gas, although of lower calorific value than gasoline, gives better results, is accounted for by the pressure of the gas in the bag, which delivers this fuel to the engine with little or no "back

PLAYGROUND FIELD DAY

Demonstration of Competition and Athletic Activities

A Field Day with a combination picnic and athletic meet will be held on the Newton Playgrounds, weather permitting, August 21st and 26th. In order to avoid the long hike on the part of the children and the spending of too much money for carfares, the playgrounds have been divided into five groups and the playgrounds in each group will combine on one playground.

The grouping for Thursday is as follows:

1. Stearns, Boyd, and Allison Playgrounds on the Allison Playground.
2. West Newton, Eden Avenue, Auburndale Park and Burr School Playgrounds on the Burr School Playground.
3. Cabot, Horace Mann, Clafin, and Farlow Park on the Cabot Playground.

The grouping for Tuesday, August 26, is as follows:

1. Lower Falls and Upper Falls on the Upper Falls Playground.
2. Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, and Thompsonville on the Newton Centre Playground.

The playground directors have been organized into committees for field day. They in turn will organize the children into sub-committees. The children from one playground who go to another playground will go there under leadership of directors and will take their luncheons. The home playground will look after the welfare of the visitors.

The program for the day will consist of:

1. Morning 10 O'Clock
2. 25, 35, and 50 yard dash for mid-jet, junior, and senior boys, also for junior and senior girls.
3. Competitions in throwing for the different groups.
4. Running broad jump and high jump.
5. Basketball and rope quit competitions.

Afternoon 1.30 O'Clock

1. Inter-playground dodge ball and fist ball competitions.
2. Demonstrations of folk dancing and folk dancing competitions.
3. Finals of the field and track events.
4. Exhibition of the occupation work.
5. Demonstration of Girls' Health League and Mother Craft instruction.
6. Baseball and other scheduled games, if according to League Schedule.

Ice cream and tonic will probably be on sale on every playground. The management of the sale will be handled by the local committee.

Music will be furnished by the regular phonographs and by hurdy-gurdies.

The parents are urged to come out to the playground and spend a day with the children. They are invited to join our committee of directors and others, interested to make the day a pleasant one for the children.

It has been thought well to have this group field day rather than one large all Newton field day, on account of the heavy expenses and the difficulty of transporting a large number of children.

REAL ESTATE

Barbour & Travis report that they have sold for L. W. Kittelle, et al. to M. Frank Lucas, the double house of eighteen rooms with 13,743 square feet of land, situated 28 and 32 Prince street, the property being assessed at $8500, of which $2500 applies on the land and $6000 on the building.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE — Florence Moore, the funniest girl on the stage, will come to the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, on Monday evening, August 18th, in her latest farce, entitled "Breakfast in Bed." As the title implies, the new entertainment is sure to be a merry-maker, and no introduction is necessary for Florence Moore when her memorable engagement in Boston last season as the star of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" is recalled. "Breakfast in Bed" was written by three authors: Georges Feydeau, Willard Mack, and Hilliard Booth, because, as someone remarked, no single author or pair of authors could write funny lines for Florence Moore. Miss Moore will be surrounded by an excellent cast, including Will Deming, Tommy Meade, Leon Gordon, Harry Hanlon, Jules Epalle, Ned Burton, Anne Lorenz, and others.

Nell Gwynne Custom.

The custom of placing an orange on a plate near the door of Savoy chapel, London, the Sunday after Christmas is probably a survival of the custom which prevailed at this chapel after the death of Nell Gwynne. In those days it was usual, in memory of the orange-girl, who was notably large-hearted and a kindly giver of alms, to place an orange on the plate whenever alms were distributed.

Winter Reading.

Books of natural history make the most cheerful winter reading. I read in Audubon with a thrill of delight, when the snow covers the ground, of the magnolia, and the Florida keys, and their warm sea breezes; of the fence rail, and the cotton tree, and the migrations of the rice bird; of the breaking up of winter in Labrador, and the melting of the snow on the forks of the Missouri.—Thoreau.

Ivory Mats.

There are but three mats of ivory in existence. The largest one measures 8 by 4 feet; and, although made in the north of India, has a Greek design for a border. It is used only on state occasions, like the signing of important state documents. The cost of this precious mat was almost incalculable, for more than 6,400 pounds of pure ivory were used in its construction. Only the finest and most flexible strips of the material could be used and the mat is like the finest woven fabric.

HOME-MAKING COURSE

For High School and College Graduates

The Household Arts Department of the Newton Vocational School offers a six months' course in Home-making to young women who desire to get a comprehensive knowledge of home activities and to become capable home-makers.

Many girls have no opportunity to study Home-making subjects during their school or college terms and yet feel the need of such training in their own homes, and for such girls this course has been especially planned. It is the aim of the Household Arts Department to give the students electing this course very thorough training similar to that offered by some of the best private finishing schools in the country. There is no tuition charged and the pupils will have the advantage of working with modern equipment. Experienced teachers will be in charge of the instruction.

The course will begin September 1919 and continue until March 1920. Hours, 8.30 to 2.00.

Course of Study

Dressmaking, Millinery, Costume Design, Textiles, Household Sanitation, Household Management, Budget Making, Household Accounts and Marketing, Home Care of the Sick, Child Welfare, Cookery, Dietetics.

Further information concerning the above course may be obtained at the office of the Newton Vocational School, Elm road, Newtonville, Mass. Telephone Newton North 1592.

Some home gardeners have experienced already the blossom-end rot trouble on their tomatoes. This disease causes a decay of the fruit at the blossom end. It is caused by soil conditions, usually by a soil being too wet and not well drained. Tomatoes that are shaded much by the foliage are quite subject to the disease. Plants that have been trained to stakes and kept pruned are less liable to attack by the disease.

If you have a surplus of garden vegetables on hand, do not allow them to go to waste. String and shell beans, beets, carrots, spinach, chard, summer squash, and tomatoes are now obtainable from most gardens for canning. Sweet corn will be ready soon. It should be picked between the milk and the dough stage and canned as soon as possible after it is picked.

A home gardener in Waltham succeeded in destroying most of the loop or worms on his beans by shaking the caterpillars from the vines and running a cultivator through the rows. If one does not like the idea of spraying with arsenate of lead, this method of destroying the worms should be tried. During the next few weeks one may plant spinach in his garden for use during late fall and early spring. The Victoria variety should be planted as it does best in cool weather. Try some.

"I only wish to point out," says Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, "that milk is an INDISPENSABLE article of diet of any people who wish to achieve.

"Without the continued use of milk, not only for the feeding of our children but in liberal amounts in cookery and as an adjunct to our diet, we cannot as a nation maintain the position as a world power to which we have arisen."

FOOD SALES WERE SUCCESSFUL

Practically all of Newton's $10,000 Stocks of Army "Grub" Disposed of and Demand For More is Great

No community has equalled Newton's record in the sale of surplus Army food for where other cities and towns bought sparingly, or else were left with parts of large purchases on their hands, Newton has sold practically every bit of the $10,000 worth of supplies that were available. There is every probability that the city government will give the citizens the opportunity to reduce living costs by acquiring more of these food-stuffs.

The original purchase was $7500 worth from the Army base in South Boston. Later $2500 worth, comprising Waltham's left-over stock, was bought and the last of this lot will be cleaned up tomorrow. The entire lot was about 40,000 pounds.

Incidentally no community now has a better working system of disposing of the food for the organization built up under the direction of Supervisor Andrew Prior, is smooth-working and efficient, thanks to the volunteer workers that have assisted.

In common with other places Newton suffered, at the outset from the dilatory methods of those who distribute the food at the big South Boston warehouse. This led to failure of supply for the first few days.

The sales were held at the Stearns School, Nonantum, where Mrs. James T. Burns was in charge, the old Congregational Church at West Newton, where Frank L. Smith was in charge, the Mason School, Newton Centre, with J. Albert Cole in charge, and at the Emerson School, Upper Falls, where C. A. Colby had charge.

When the Waltham supply was obtained a part of it was placed on sale at the Stearns School but it was quickly snapped up on Tuesday. It was then decided to hold the balance until tomorrow, when it will be offered to the public at all four sales stations.

When the sales first started there was some confusion, especially at West Newton, due to the fact that many persons, on finding the supply sold out, paid in advance for future stocks, especially case lots of vegetables.

They held receipts for these and late in the afternoon, when two more truckloads arrived from South Boston, these orders were filled first. This was not understood at the time by scores of people who were waiting, without receipts, to make purchases, and there were some complaints.

Profiting by example Mr. Prior has stated that in the event of future sales no station will be opened until the entire supply, no matter how large it may be, is transported to Newton and evenly distributed among the distributing stations. In this way much trouble for those in charge, and disappointment for those who are unable to have their orders filled, will be avoided. Experience has taught that the people are willing to wait and knowledge that the city is to have an adequate supply on hand before offering the goods for sale will be a further incentive for waiting.

Contrary to expectations the opening of the parcel post distribution of these supplies did not result in a rush to the local postoffices. At Newton, for instance, the sales for the first two days did not average more than $200. It was evident that residents of this city prefer to buy direct at the municipal sales.

Mr. Prior states that the balancing of accounts for the first sales shows only a slight loss, much less than could be expected. This probably all occurred on the first day when there was more or less confusion and the workers were too anxious to serve everybody.

A study of those who came to buy was interesting. Scores came in automobiles while others trundled baby carriages, toy wagons and even wheelbarrows, in which to carry away their purchases. Suit cases, shopping bags, empty boxes and, in fact, anything that could be utilized in carrying away the goods were brought into use. The crowd represented several nationalities and while waiting for the sales to begin there were many earnest discussions among women who were

FRANCE HONORS WHITNEY

Young Newton Soldier Awarded Croix de Guerre for Bravery in Action

Captain Wilmet Whitney, U. S. A., son of Dr. and Mrs. F. Waldo Whitney of 12 Copley street, Newton, has been awarded the Croix de Guerre for bravery in action. The young soldier was wounded in the Argonne Forest engagement last October but has recovered.

The following citation accompanies the decoration:

"An officer of great bravery, trained his men during a long forward movement, encouraging them by his daring and fearlessness, attained all the objectives that had been assigned to him."

(Signed) The Marshal of France, Commander of the French Armies of the East, General Petain.

Captain Whitney was famed as an athlete in Newton High School, playing on championship baseball and football teams. On entering Harvard he was varsity pitcher and made an excellent record in intercollegiate competition.

In the "great adventure" his record has been equally good, as the citation from the French Government shows. In A. E. F. football last fall he played on one of the strongest eleven that was turned out in the big array of football talent that was included in Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

ADMITS LOCAL BREAK

Man Arrested in Boston Responsible For Many Burglaries in Suburbs

Silverware, clothing, and other property stolen on Saturday from the residence of Joseph B. Simpson, 57 Hunnewell avenue, were recovered Tuesday afternoon by Inspector O'Halloran in a mass of plunder taken from a room on Temple street, in the West End of Boston, after the arrest of a man who, at various times, says he is George Smith, Harry Berwin, and several other aliases. It is known that he has a police record and that he has served time in Pennsylvania.

Inspection of his booty by the police of several cities and towns near Boston show that Smith, or Berwin, is the burglar who has been highly successful in the past fortnight and who has perpetrated a score of breaks, all in the daytime. In every case the house entered was one where the family is absent for the summer, and the method the thief used in entering the Simpson house is a good indication of how he worked.

James Maloney, a letter carrier, was delivering mail Saturday morning when he saw a well dressed young man standing near the Simpson house. He asked Maloney if it was the home of so and so and was told that the Simpson family lived there. He replied that that was the family he wished to find but that the name had slipped from his memory. He then asked if they were at home, saying he had rung the bell and received no answer. Maloney told him the occupants of the house were absent and the man walked away.

At noon of that day Maloney was again in the neighborhood and saw the same man hurrying toward the car line, carrying a heavy suit case and a mandolin in a case. Although, at the time, the suspect was not close to the Simpson dwelling, Maloney became suspicious and telephoned the police.

It was found that the burglar had wrapped a cloth about a stone so as to deaden the noise and with this missile had broken a window. He

GOLF TEST CASE BEGUN

Local Judge Fines Brae Burn Players for Taking Part in Competition But Holds Men Guiltless of Participating in a Sport on Sunday

The test case to determine the legality of Sunday golf, and which is being watched by golfers all over the country, opened this morning in the local court. Edward N. Kimball and Howard Emerson, members of the Brae Burn Country Club, were arraigned before Judge Bacon, each charged with taking part in a sport on the Lord's Day and also with taking part in a game on that day.

They entered pleas of not guilty and Jonathan W. French, son of Asa P. French, who represents the Massachusetts Golf Association, which is making the test case, stated to the court that it is the intention to carry the case to the Supreme Court for a ruling if necessary.

Judge Bacon ruled that the Statutes do not intend to prohibit solitary games, either in cards or any other diversion, therefore he held both defendants guiltless on the count of taking part in a sport. On the second charge, however, he ruled that competition was indulged in and each was fined $5. Appeals were taken and bonds were placed at $100 in each case. They will be heard in the Superior Court early next month.

State policemen Frank Hardiman and Frank G. Hale testified to visiting the Brae Burn links last Sunday; to seeing Mr. Kimball "knocking a small, white ball around" and to hearing Mr. Emerson propose that they play around together. They played several holes during which time no score was kept. Then it was proposed to make it a match game and from that time scores were kept and each player endeavored to beat the other. This constituted the game.

Judge Bacon's ruling regarding solitary games in which no scores are kept is important if sustained by the higher courts for it will let down

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Newton Graphic:

I have seen at times notices of the Newton Improvement Association and an occasional sign board marked Newton Improvement Association. Does it still exist and if so in what way does it show its activities or life? Does it interest itself in anything that concerns the streets to see that they are kept clean, free from rubbish and scraps of paper or whole newspapers? Does it ever notice the carelessness of the men who are employed on the rubbish or ash carts in not picking what they drop when emptying the barrels or boxes? Does it appeal to the boys and sometimes men who search the barrels and throw the contents on the ground? Does it ever appeal to the boy scouts to help keep the streets free from waste paper on the sidewalks or orange peel—and the like?

Does it interest itself in any civic improvement like small parks or in the purchasing of land for such purposes like the opportunity to have a fine little one on the banks of the Charles River from Jefferson street to St. James street, and protest against the Metropolitan Park Commission running a road along their Reservation from the foot of Charlesbank road to Jefferson street.

If they should stir to do any such good work they would receive the thanks and support of many who now think they have no excuse for their name or existence. G. W.

To the Newton Graphic:

It was a very great and very sad surprise to me to see in one of your recent issues the statement that the Metropolitan Park Commission were to extend the road along the Charles River from the finished end of the road to the foot of Jefferson street, thus cutting off all access to the river by a horrid driveway with its stream of motor cars and trucks.

It is very strange that the Newton Improvement Association has not taken some steps to secure to us and those who are to come after us that very attractive very beautiful strip of land for a public park with the view of the Watertown and Waltham hills and the fine stretch of water and the grounds of the Blind Asylum and the beautiful tower of the Memorial Chapel.

Then too, there is the Hyde Brook that with a little care might be a lovely addition to the place.

The need of more room for outdoor breathing places is plainly shown by the number of children and "grown-ups" who go to Farlow Park every day and especially on Sunday.

And now we willingly give up the access to the river, to the opportunity to have a public landing, and a place for bathing for the boys and girls, where they could learn to swim, for a road for automobiles from above us, as if there was any need for more easy ways to go to Boston than there now are. One of the most beautiful spots in Newton for a quiet, restful near at hand outing, gone. All that pretty little bluff, it might be called, with its cluster of vine and shrubbery and two old trees likely to be destroyed; and for what? for a road to Boston, when the Charlesbank road for a comparatively small expense, from St. James street to the finished driveway at the end would furnish all the needed room for motor cars and leave the land open for us to enjoy and our successors too. It is not necessary just now for the expenditure of money in improvements, but do please urge the immediate securing of the land and stop the unnecessary sacrifice of this beauty spot to a needless public demand. L. R. S.

LATEST INFORMATION ON INSURANCE FOR WAR SERVICE MEN

Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass just recently signed a decision of momentous importance and interest to discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines.

In the decision the Secretary ruled that discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines who have dropped their insurance may reinstate it within eighteen months after discharge without paying the back premiums. All they will be asked to pay will be the premium on the amount of insurance to be reinstated for the month of grace in which they were covered and for the current month.

Thus for example, if a man dropped $10,000 of insurance in January 1919 and applies for reinstatement the first of August for $5,000 all he will have to pay will be the premium for January (the month of grace) on $5,000 and the premium for August on $5,000. Or if he applies for reinstatement of the full $10,000, he will pay a total of two months' premiums on $10,000, one for January and one for August. He will not have to pay premiums in either case for the intervening months.

The decision stipulates that the former service men applying for reinstatement be in as good health as at date of discharge.

Of course every man who has dropped his insurance should reinstate it immediately, for the reason that if he should die before reinstatement, his dependents will not receive any payment.

The former service man, who has already dropped his insurance must note that the new ruling does not automatically reinstate him, and he will be without insurance until he voluntarily applies for and secures reinstatement. He should immediately apply for reinstatement for his own protection and that of his dependents.

Don't forget that men die or become disabled in peace time as well as in war time, and that if a man waits he may not be in as good health as he was at the time of his discharge and consequently may not be able to secure reinstatement.

Don't put it off. Come around to the Newton Y. M. C. A. and have the War Service Secretary, Lieut. E. A. Sterling, supply you with the information and blanks for reinstatement. Do it now.

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

The tomato is, without question, the most popular vegetable that is grown in home gardens. The fruit is relished by most every one. The plants are easy to raise being relatively free from disease and insect enemies. A sure crop is generally the rule. But how often has the home gardener gone into his garden to pick some ripe fruit for the table only to find some of the most perfect tomatoes cracked open at the top or a hole eaten into the side of them by some insect?

In order to avoid such damage to the fruit, it is a good plan to pick the tomatoes when they first commence to ripen. These unripened tomatoes should be placed in a moderately warm, dark place such as a covered box or a pantry drawer. Here they will ripen quicker and more uniformly than when they are allowed to mature on the vine. When tomatoes are left to mature on the vine they require a lot of nourishment in order to ripen the fruit and seeds. By picking the tomatoes before they ripen, the plant food that otherwise would have gone into ripening the tomatoes, is conserved to develop the remaining fruit on the vines.

Now that the berry season is over, it is well to give the back-yard raspberry and blackberry patches some attention. One should cut out all the canes that produced fruit this season. This will give the new canes a better chance to make a good growth before winter. The old canes ought to be placed in a heap and burned so as to destroy all insects and diseases that they might contain.

Squash vine borers are still doing great damage in some parts of the country. The borers have infested a garden in Everett to such an extent that some were found in the stems of New Zealand spinach. This pest must be hunted down and killed. Poisonous sprays will not reach him as he attacks the inside of the stem eating out the pith and thus cutting off the supply of plant juices to the rest of the plant. As recommended in an earlier article, slitting the stem and removing the borer is the surest means of control. Air-slacked lime sprinkled around the stem of the vine will help to repel the pest.

CAR MEN GRANTED INCREASE

the fifth year. The men accepted the schedule at the time, but they claim that the high cost of living left them without money enough to meet the demands upon them, and they petitioned the officials for an increase.

The matter was referred to an arbitration board of three, Henry Endicott, James H. Vahey, representing the men, and Pitt F. Drew, president for the company. The new schedule will be retroactive to July 1, with a nine-hour day.

When Soft Answer Doesn't "Go."

A soft answer turns away wrath except when little Willie's schoolteacher asks Willie what he has in his desk that is causing so much amusement and little Willie's answer is so soft the teacher doesn't understand the first time. There is very little wrath turned away in this case.

TO WED A BELGIAN GIRL

Lieutenant Edward D. Curtis of Chestnut Hill Will Be Married at Brussels Next Month.

Dr. Francis George Curtis, chairman of the Board of Health, sailed on Wednesday from New York for Belgium where, in September, at Brussels, his son, Lieutenant Edward D. Curtis, U. S. A., will marry Mile. Francoise Guinotte, daughter of a Belgian mine owner.

The wedding will be the culmination of a war romance. Lieutenant Curtis was graduated from Harvard University in the class of 1914. He immediately went to England to complete his studies at Magdalen College. When the war began he went to London and for several months assisted Herbert Hoover in the work of sending home stranded American tourists.

Next he became a member of the Belgian Relief Commission and in this capacity was stationed in St. Quentin. But the young man wanted action so he enlisted in the Belgian Army as a private of artillery. For bravery in action he was awarded the Croix de Guerre and King Albert of Belgium decorated him with the insignia of a Chevalier of the Order of the Crown. The captain under whom he served was a brother of the girl he is to marry and through him he first met her when she was engaged in war relief work.

When America entered the war young Curtis immediately enlisted in the A. E. F. and was commissioned a first lieutenant. He was detailed to the intelligence service but even the rigid demands of service did not prevent his carrying on a courtship.

REPUBLICAN OUTING

State Committee To Hold Public
Affair At Norumbega Park

Chairman Frank B. Hall of the Republican State Committee announces that a popular-priced Republican outing will be held at Norumbega Park, Auburndale, Wednesday afternoon, August 27. The various Republican State and County clubs are co-operating with the state committee to make this the biggest political outing staged in Massachusetts.

Chairman Hall has just returned from New York, where he has secured the promise that Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, and U. S. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana will be present and make addresses on the National situation. Gov. Coolidge will be the principal Massachusetts speaker.

Each ticket holder will be entitled to a box lunch, coffee and cigar, together with admission to the open-air theatre, where the speaking will take place. There will also be singing. The outing will be held rain or shine as there is ample protection against stormy weather. The committee announces that both men and women are welcome.

The chief reason that everybody is not successful is the fact that they have not enough persistence. Do one thing well, throwing all your energies into it. The successful man, unlike the poet, is made, not born.—John Wanamaker.

CHEESE DISHES.

As we produce such large quantities of cheese in this country and as just now we are asked to use cheese, particularly cottage cheese, a few ways of preparing cheese dishes will be appreciated.

Take the bits of dried cheese, grate them, not wasting a bit; this may be used as a flavor for milk toast, and a cream of cheese soup, in escalloped dishes, as sandwich fillings and in numerous ways which will occur to any thinking cook.

Cottage cheese with chopped cherries makes a most delicious sandwich filling—at least the college girls never fill half enough to go round.

An omelet sprinkled with a generous spoonful or two of grated cheese will make a much more nourishing dish. Put the cheese on just as it is folded.

Cheese canapés may be served as first course at dinner or luncheon. Spread the well-seasoned cottage or cream cheese on well-buttered bread, cut in rounds or shaped in any form desired, finish with a border of finely chopped olives and a piece of pimento cut in fancy shape for the center.

Cottage cheese with boiled dressing served on lettuce is a most delicious salad combination.

Cheese Sandwiches.—Mix grated cheese with cream, season with chopped chives, a dash of paprika and salt to taste; spread on bread cut in rounds, put together in sandwich fashion, then brown in a bit of sweet fat until brown on both sides. Serve hot with a plain lettuce salad.

Cheese Croquettes.—Melt three tablespoons of sweet fat, add a fourth of a cupful of corn flour or barley flour, mix well and when well blended add two-thirds of a cupful of milk; cool slowly, add two well-beaten eggs yolks and half a cupful of good-flavored cheese grated. As soon as the cheese is melted take from the fire, season with salt and pepper and spread out to cool. Make into balls, dip in egg white and crumbs and fry in fat.

Cream cheese with chopped Marischino cherries or with canned or candied cherries is a good combination.

FOR BETTER HOUSING

American Woolen Company Launches
Plan To Provide Modern Homes
For Its Workers

A project by which better housing facilities may be established in mill towns that are now deficient in this respect, and by which mill workers may own modern, attractive dwellings, has been launched by the American Woolen Company.

In brief it is this: The company has organized the Homestead Association, Inc., with headquarters in Boston. This organization will prepare designs, in conference with employees, for a large number of up-to-date dwellings with all improvements and each with more than 4,000 square feet of land. These houses will be of four, five, six or more rooms and of durable, permanent construction.

They will be sold to employees of the company at cost, preference being given to those who have been longest in the service of the company. Money will be loaned by the American Woolen Company at 4 1/2 per cent. for the purchase of these homes. A first payment of at least five per cent. of the selling price must be made at the time of sale and a part of the monthly payment will cover interest charges, taxes and insurance.

The Homestead Association will also take mortgages at 4 1/2 per cent. on individual homes to be purchased by employees of the company up to 75 per cent. of the value of these homes. Building loans will also be extended on the above mortgage basis to those employees who wish to build according to their own plans.

Any person in the employ of the American Woolen Company on June 16, 1919, or any employee insured by the group life insurance policy of the company is eligible to these benefits.

DOROTHEA MACKAY and FRANK CARTER in "See-Saw", the enchanting musical comedy that has caught the town at the Tremont Theatre, Boston

TREMONT THEATRE—"Gayest of musical comedies" is the label that Henry W. Savage's latest musical comedy hit, "See-Saw", has won from Boston theatre-goers during its run at the Tremont Theatre. Its lilting tunes set every foot tapping eager to join in the dance. Its love story has the spirit of romance that never grows old and from the rise of the curtain to its fall, the fun never slackens. "This is the life; how gay it is!" sing the "See-Saw" girls as the curtain rises, and for three hours they carry you along in the golden glow of their youth, beauty and high spirits. Every role is filled by a player who seems born to his part and it is safe to predict that "See-Saw" will be remembered as one of those plays which make theatrical history. As it is booked to appear at the Cohan Theatre in New York on Labor Day it must leave Boston on August 30. So the motto is: See it now.

SHUBERT THEATRE—Referred to as Arthur Hammerstein's pet show, "Somebody's Sweetheart," which as a musical play captivated New York for one entire season, has finally taken to the road, and on Saturday night, August 23, it will open the new season at the Shubert Theatre. This piece, which exploits "A 100 per cent. cast," was written by Alonzo Price, who did the book and lyrics, and Antonio Bafunno, who turned out the music. Price, who also acts in his own effusion, will be remembered by local theatre-goers as a son of the late Mark Price. However, young Mr. Price, who is a native of Boston, has achieved a reputation on his own as an actor and an author. While he and his associate, Bafunno, are comparatively newcomers in the authors' field, it is safe to say that since the advent of their "Somebody's Sweetheart," their names are now as well known on Broadway as "uneeda biscuit." Throughout the musical and comical proceedings are found such fine players and singers as Alonzo Price, Louise Allen, Eva Fallon, John Dunsmure, Ardelle Cleaves, Howard Marsh, Veronica, Albert Sackett, and others of the original New York cast.

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

A remarkable vaudeville bill consisting of five all star acts are to feature the program at Gordon's Cambridge Central Sq. Theatre next week, headed by Geo. Yeoman & Lizzie, Ed-

Money, Willie Darling, Great Britton Turner, Wiley Fox Hunter, Green Berry Anderson, Youstus Horrible Riner, George Sleeps From House, Handsome Pleasant Ayres, Green Hue Jackson, Lloyd George Parliament, Grief Grimes, Precious Eugene Grant, Free Office Graves, Huckleberry Shell, Isaac Dignot Butcher, and Fine German also are listed.

The broad jump record in names goes to a resident of Salmon, Ida., who hurdles five before he reaches the tape. He is Harry Adolph Thomas Richard Eugene Bullock, and the clerks in the bureau are tempted to disturb Mr. Bullock's continuity by punctuating him.

The clerks have found 49 ways of spelling Aloysius and 18 ways of spelling Ignatz. There were 53,000 Johnstons, 51,000 Smiths, and 18,500 Walkers in the service. Forty-seven thousand Williamses were with the colors.

Abraham Lincolns, George Washingtons, Robert E. Lees, and William Jennings were in the service by the hundreds. Napoleon Bonaparte, or rather a dozen of him, fought for the United States. Gen. Grant, Gen. Washington, and Gen. Jackson also helped beat the Germans. Quite a few Virgin Marys were in the army, too. These latter were largely men of Latin descent. Orange Cobb of Nolima, N. C., and his son, Lemon Cobb, were also in the service.

You are welcome to the Showrooms of Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin street, corner Congress, Boston, Mass., to the exhibition of the largest display of Electric, Gas and Oil Lighting Fixtures in this country.

BIBLE SCHOOL PLATTSBURG

The list of leaders and speakers for the Second Bible School Plattsburg of the Norumbega District Sunday School Association at Newtonville, Oct. 13th to 17th, is nearly completed. Miss Margaret Slattery will deliver the address during the first period, or general assembly, the first three evenings, and Prof. H. Augustine Smith on the Friday evening. Exact themes for all these addresses will be announced later.

For the Primary Group of Teachers in the second period, Mrs. H. W. Fitts of Newton has been secured, and Miss Lullona Barker of Watertown for the Junior Teachers.

NORUMBEGA PARK

At the Norumbega Park Theatre on Monday evening the Liberty Players will present Cosmo Hamilton's play "The Blindness of Virtue", which is well known to Boston theatre goers as one which caused much discussion when first presented in America.

The play is said to have been dramatized by Mr. Hamilton from his book of the same title at the suggestion of the Archbishop of London. It is given to the stage not as a problem play but as a problem solved in a lesson to parents. And the formula is arranged admirably to convey this lesson to the serious-minded who appreciate instructions in a dramatic form, and do not look upon the stage merely as a field for entertainment. There will be two performances given daily. In addition to the theatre, the zoo and the numerous other attractions offer a gala holiday for women and children and this Mecca of Greater Boston is enjoying the most prosperous season in its history.

GATHERING OF CROP DATA

Information Showing How Thorough Is the Work of the Department of Agriculture.

An outline of the organization of agriculture in the department of agriculture through more than half a century of experience in crop estimating, indicating the care and thoroughness with which government crop reports are prepared, is given in the annual report of the secretary of agriculture.

For collecting original data the bureau of crop estimates has two main sources of information—voluntary reporters and salaried field agents. The voluntary force comprises 33,743 township reporters, one for each agricultural township; 2,752 county reporters, who report monthly or oftener on county-wide conditions, basing their estimates on personal observation, inquiry and written reports of aids, of whom there are about 5,500; 19 special lists of co-operators, aggregating 137,000 names, who report on particular products, such as live stock, cotton, wool, rice, tobacco, potatoes, apples, peanuts, beans and the like; and 20,100 field aids, including the best informed men in each state, who report directly to the salaried field agents of the bureau. The total voluntary staff, therefore, numbers approximately 200,000, an average of about 66 for each county and 4 for each township. The reporters, as a rule, are farmers. They serve without compensation, and are selected and retained on the lists because of their knowledge of local conditions, their public spirit, and their interest in the work. All except county and field aids report directly to the bureau, and each class of reports is tabulated and averaged separately for each group and state.

Girl Farmers.

South Bethlehem, Pa., probably had one of the most active organizations of the woman's land army in the entire United States during the summer just ended. Farmers in that locality in many instances reaped the largest crops in history, and they praise the conscientious and efficient work of the girls and young women who assisted them as among the best help they ever had.

Pitching hay is really a man's job, but the girls on the farms near Bethlehem were ready to try any kind of farm work, and made a fine record in harvesting the hay crop. The work for which they showed themselves best adapted, however, was horticultural. They were invaluable in the truck gardens, weeding onion patches, picking berries, bunching asparagus and doing the various other odd jobs that must be done to keep gardens productive and neat.

Saturday night meant a time of rest for the girls, and they celebrated with "singings" ordinarily. They also gave occasional vaudeville and minstrel shows and dinner parties. Many of them are college girls and have gone back to school, but others are engaging in other forms of work during the fall and winter season.

Almanach De Gotha.

We pity the colleague who at present has to edit the Almanach de Gotha, the directory of all courts. The next edition, which, by the way, had almost been ready for the printer when the great tumbling of thrones happened and therefore will have to be radically revised and will look very different. We cannot imagine that the good people who used to place the bible of aristocracy and the court directory on the most conspicuous shelf of their bookcase will ever again have the desire to inquire "who is who?"

No fewer than 278 names belonging to former reigning princes will be missed. And those are of the ruling families of Germany exclusively; not to mention the Turks, the Greeks, the Bulgarians, etc. The new almanach, which no longer will have to speak in erasing humility of the Hohenzollern, the Wittelsbachs of Bavaria, the Zähringers of Baden, the Coburgs and the Schaumburg-Lippes is a list of war gains. Of course, it does not compensate entirely for all the sacrifices which hundreds of thousands of better men had to suffer before these 278 highnesses of divine right were permitted to become ordinary mortals, but it is, nevertheless, one fruit of our victory. And the house-cleaning still goes on.—German Democracy Bulletin.

New Members.

Little Albert's mother had always insisted that he wear his hair in long curls. The other boys had their hair cut but not Albert though he longed and longed for that ceremony. Finally an uncle came to visit at the home and he soon decided to make Albert into a real boy. So to a barber's shop he hied his nephew and his locks like Sampson's were shorn. Then uncle and Albert went home.

After mother's anger had spent itself Albert went to the mirror to survey himself. He stood and looked at his image for a few minutes. And then he rushed back to the family. "Oh, I've got ears, too," he rejoiced. "I have got ears!"

Putting War Gas to Good Use.

Experts from the federal department of agriculture and from the war department will begin a series of experiments in the South in the effort to utilize a powerful gas that was used by the American army in the war in Europe. The gas will be used in attempts to destroy the cotton boll weevil, the pink boll worm, caterpillars, potato bugs and other insect pests that ravage crops. It is said to be a by-product of southern pine.

BEYOND ALL MEED OF PRAISE

Impossible to Form Words That Will Do Even Simple Justice to American Mothers.

Just before the war the "cellar mother" was spoken of with understanding (in America), if not with laughing sympathy—the woman who decoyed husband and sons into the cellar, and then sat on the door, resolved that no mankind of hers should engage in such a fool business as war!

Many of the mothers who so spoke had made the schoolmaster's life a burden by their nervous telephoning when Ned or Harry went to school; yet when the country demanded it and their boys were ten years dearer, they gave them to the war without a sign of anything but pride, Lucy H. M. Soulsby writes in the Atlantic.

They had never been trained, like English mothers, to live through ordinary life with a boy in danger on some frontier firing line; but they learned heroism and nerve when the need came.

The American mother learned daily self-denial, too; the most extravagant of nations learned thrift in food conservation; and the most set in her ways of any woman on earth, the New England house mother, altered those ways in that most unalterable part of her house, the kitchen, where everything had been "thus and so" for generations.

And this thrift and adaptability were not drawn out of her by the needs of her own men, but by a quick imaginative sympathy, which bridged 3,000 miles of ocean and felt, with all Sir Philip Sidney's chivalry, for the stranger of alien race, "whose necessity was greater than hers."

SOON WILL BE OF THE PAST

Georgia Wild Cows Seem to Have Served Their Purpose, and Are Fast Disappearing.

The piney woods cow, long a chum of the razorback hog, is fading from the Georgia landscape. It is a poignant thought. She is one of the last links that binds Georgia to the past. Thousands of her roamed over the great plantations that would now be condemned as undemocratic. She was usually red and white—a "piled" cow—inclined to have a poor figure, hump-backed and somewhat knock-kneed, and her eyes were closely situated, in the manner which psychologists shake their heads over, because it indicates the criminal bent. But upon the piney woods cow Georgia in the old days depended entirely for milk and butter. Many planters had hundreds of them, but they all ran wild, and one of the spring sports was to round them up and mark them. If a choice specimen should be captured, she was hard to feed, being unaccustomed to civilized fodder, for piney woods cows eat grass in summer and souse their heads up to the eyes in ponds in the winter, looking for water grass and moss. They always have a forlorn air. Many of them still dwell on the islands of Banks' mill pond, which covers thousands of acres, and butchers of Valdosta hunt them with horses and dogs.—New York Post.

At Last!

There are few cyclists who, when compelled to execute repairs to inner tubes by the roadside, have not longed for unpuncturable tires. This desideratum now seems to have become an accomplished fact in Sweden, where the shortage of rubber has caused great efforts to be made to find a satisfactory substitute for the pneumatic tire. The new device consists of a thin strip of hardened steel supported on the rim by springs, the combination being said to give results comparable with those obtained by the use of rubber. Skidding is prevented by the sharp edge of the steel tread, while such tires are, of course, quite unpuncturable. Whether the new device will survive when rubber again becomes plentiful is perhaps doubtful, but as a war-time measure it has proved very useful.—From Chambers' Journal.

The Sugar Shortage.

Colonel House at a Paris reception was talking about the French sugar shortage.

"The French sugar ration is a pound a month—if you get it," he said. "Usually you don't get it, and then you buy your sugar clandestinely. The price is 80 or 90 cents a pound."

"After enduring the French sugar shortage for a month or two," the colonel ended, "you think very longingly of the peace-time plenty soon to come, and you appreciate as never before the wonderful beauty of the dear old hymn, 'In the sweet by-and-by.'"

Reading by Ear.

A new invention for the blind enables them to read with their ears. It is a machine called an octophone, by means of which flashes of light from the letters as they are printed cause certain sounds, easily distinguishable by the initiated.

The sounds vary with the shapes of the letters, and very high resistance telephones transmit these to the ears of the blind person, "reading" with highly satisfactory results.

Early Rising.

"Do you remember how we used to scold Josh about oversleeping before he went into the army?" said Mrs. Cornsoll.

"Yes," replied the farmer; "that's why we can't say a word when he gets up at daybreak and accompanies the roosters on his cornet."

PLAGUE MADE DIRE RECORD

Reasonable Grounds for Estimating That Influenza Has Cost the Lives of Six Million Persons.

Though estimates of deaths over the whole world from any single epidemic are very difficult to form, there seem to be reasonable grounds for believing that some 6,000,000 persons have perished of influenza and pneumonia during the last comparatively few weeks. Business has been interfered with by the epidemic in every country in the world, and enormous losses both in earning power and in trade have been suffered. The cost of the "influenza war" cannot be reckoned, but that it is colossal does not admit of doubt.

This plague, then, generally regarded with equanimity, is, it would seem, five times more deadly than war. It has been estimated that the war caused the death of 20,000,000 persons in four and one-half years, writes a physician in the London Times. In the same period at its epidemic rate influenza would have killed 108,000,000. The visits of the raiding Goths to London were but as a summer shower compared with the deluge of germs which we have just received. The air raids cost London some hundreds of lives; the influenza has cost it upwards of 10,000.

Never since the black death has such a plague swept over the face of the world; never, perhaps, has a plague been more stoically accepted. In India alone over 3,000,000 deaths occurred. Bombay had 15,000 of these; Delhi, with a population of 200,000, had 800 deaths a day. The Punjab lost 250,000 persons. South Africa suffered no less severely. In Cape Town 2,000 children were left destitute as a result of the disease, while the plague swept through the native areas like fire. The Commonwealth of Australia sent a ship to Samoa with help because the disease was affecting 80 per cent of the natives. The white population were only able to feed the living and bury the dead. In New Zealand public services were stopped and business gravely disorganized. The ravages in America have been appalling, nor has Canada escaped. In Ontario and the western provinces no fewer than 108 doctors died of the epidemic, while the total death rate in Ontario alone was 5,000 up to November. A large number of American Indians have perished. Europe as a whole has suffered in the same way. In Spain the epidemic was described as "truly awful." In Barcelona the death rate was credibly stated to be 1,200 daily. France has had her share, likewise Germany and Austria.

Few Presidents Rich.

The Roosevelt fortune was different, moreover, in being mainly an inherited fortune. Its possessor may have added to it in his lifetime, but, as in the case of other presidents, most of his personal earnings in a period of forty years of public life were absorbed in the support of his family. No other president has ever enjoyed such advantages of remunerative publicity as Mr. Roosevelt, and besides his salary from official positions his income from his books and from editorial work must have been large. Yet it is a fair inference that if these had been the sole sources of his support he would have died a poor man, as Cleveland did, and most of their predecessors in the White House.

This has been the common financial fate of presidents, and the example of Mr. Roosevelt probably merely proved the rule that the office of president is not economically productive in any logical proportion to its exalted state and onerous political qualifications.

A Different Vocation.

Alderman Louis B. Anderson, who is endowed with a keen sense of humor, can as a rule be depended upon to bring out the latest story finding favor among "the brethren."

A story handed to Alderman Anderson by some of the boys concerns Sam Jones, who stood 6 feet 4 inches in his stocking feet and was in training at one of the southern camps. One day the officers undertook the organization of a regimental band.

"Anybody here a bugler?" asked the company commander.

Sam stepped forward three paces. "Play a few notes to show us how good a bugler you are," was the next direction.

"Buhglah!" exclaimed the astonished Sam. "I see no buhglah. I thought you said buhglah."—Chicago American.

The Strassburg Clock.

A correspondent writes that it is not at every hour that the procession of the twelve apostles makes the round of the famous clock at Strassburg, says a London paper. That takes place only at midday by middle European time. The quarters of each hour are struck by the figures of a child, a young man, an adult man, and an old man in their order, while an effigy of Death appears and strikes each full hour. Many marvelous astronomical phenomena are also shown on the clock, which automatically regulates itself at midnight on the last day of each year. It is not generally known, by the way, that a model of this unique timepiece can be seen any day by Londoners in the Horniman museum at Forest Hill.

CITY HALL NOTES

Miss Lucy Jennison of the Engineer's office is in New Hampshire on a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Alice Coleman of the Comptroller's office is on her annual vacation.

Miss Mary Neary of the Forestry department has gone to Nantasket. —Joseph Edwards of Public Buildings' department has gone to Providence, R. I.

Executives in responsible positions are finding it necessary more and more to rely upon efficient secretarial help. The comparatively small number of available secretarial workers and the hazy conception that has heretofore existed regarding the real distinction between a stenographer and a secretary have forced many executives to be satisfied with stenographic help in the positions where secretarial help is essential. There is a wide gap between secretarial and stenographic duties. Skill in writing shorthand and in typewriting is now recognized as essential for the secretary, but the possession of this skill does not insure secretarial efficiency.

Just at this moment, in view of our relations with other countries, particularly with France and South America, a secretary possessing a commercial knowledge of French and Spanish is equipped with a tremendously valuable asset, and recognizing the great importance of this condition the Cutter Secretarial School will open this fall with an added Language Department under the supervision of the best talent obtainable.

NORUMBEGA PARK

The attraction to be presented by the Liberty Players at Norumbega Park next week is "The Country Girl," a new play of rural life, written by a New England girl, dealing with local conditions on the order of "Shore Acres," "Lovers' Lane," and "Way Down East." The new restaurant with the jazz orchestra, has one of the finest dancing floors in New England. Those who do not care for this form of entertainment find equal pleasure in the daily afternoon and evening concerts on the banks of the Charles by Edna Frances Simmons and her ladies' orchestra. The famous Zoo draws a huge crowd daily. Something of local interest to both men and women is the prize contest now going on in the rifle range. A prize of a silver cup will be awarded to the champion marksman, and the contest is arousing keen competition.

WOMEN DISREGARD TRAFFIC RULES

Women who, while waiting for cars at Newton Corner, disregard the traffic policemen stationed there are liable to be brought to court, as the police department is planning to take action to prevent accidents. Women, it is said, persist in cutting across in front of street cars and automobiles, not giving chauffeurs an opportunity to drive carefully even in the restricted area set aside for motor vehicles. There have been many narrow escapes and cases of where women, who have just missed being struck by machines, have indignantly rebuked the drivers, although they were the ones who were in the wrong.

"MOTHERCRAFT" CLASSES END

Successful Experiment in Playground Teaching Concludes with Awarding of Diplomas To 350 Girls

Newton's "Mothercraft" classes, an innovation in playground work in Massachusetts and one of the most practical projects ever launched, ended a successful initial season on Tuesday and from the interest manifested in the work and the results it is probable that "mothercraft" teaching will be an established factor on our eighteen playgrounds from now on.

In all, 350 girls, whose ages range from seven to sixteen years, took the course this summer and every one is now fully qualified, not only to assume care of the smaller children in their homes but often to give advice to women of mature years in the proper care of infants. So much interest has been manifested in the classes, which have been taught by Miss Kathryn G. Lent, that many visitors from other states have journeyed to Newton during the past two months to inspect the work and to get ideas.

It has been of particular interest to members of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, many of whom attended the closing exercises. Members of the City Government were also present, as well as several clergymen.

For the benefit of the visitors Miss Lent demonstrated, by using a large doll, just how she taught the girls to wash, dress and feed a baby. Celia Delmonte, a ten-year-old pupil of the course, read a paper on "Baby's Food" and another essay on "The Care of Baby" was read by Helen Wombolt, also a pupil.

Mrs. Charles Johnson, Jr., of the Newton Playground Commission, introduced Miss May Bliss Dickenson, who represented the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and who told of the great interest the "mothercraft" classes have attracted outside of Newton and of the great benefits to be derived from such teaching.

Mayor Childs presented the diplomas to the 350 girls who had completed the work. He spoke on "The Whole Duty of Boys and Girls" and told his young audience that the best motto for them to adopt is the single word "grow." By separating this the first letter will stand for "go", the second for "right", the third for "on", and the fourth for "working."

Those who received diplomas are: Stearns Playground: Mary Gaffrell, Heleda Wombolt, Ruth Fried, Anna Hough, Emma Dale, Alice Sullivan, Harriet Mulcahy, Frances Fagen, Christine Gillis, Lillian Mielman, Florence Doherty, Catharine Considine, Alice Lefevre, Frances Flynn, Irene D'Arcy, Gladys Quinlan, Catharine Crowde, Bertha Ruben, Helen Doherty, Mary Durken, Rita Sullivan, Eileen Murphy, Bessie Orr, Helen Durkin, Ruth Feeley, and Helen Lavender.

ANOTHER FARE INCREASE

Middlesex & Boston To Make The Unit Ten Cents on All Lines, Beginning September 20

Preceded by the announcement that under Henry E. Endicott's award, which is retroactive to July 1, 1919, wages paid by the company are increased thirty per cent, the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company has announced another fare increase, which will go into effect September 20.

In effect, the new schedule places the Newton and Waltham lines in the ten-cent class. In addition, all transfers will cost twelve cents. This is practically a five-cent increase to patrons who have been riding on seven-cent lines and using transfer privileges.

A flat rate of ten cents will now prevail on all parts of the system. Townline tickets used on the lines of the Lexington & Boston division of the company will be continued at the new rate and school children's tickets will be sold at half rates.

In view of the agitation over fare increases, especially in Boston, and the protests against the recent increase to ten cents in some of the Middlesex & Boston lines, it is probable that there will be still further objection to the latest increase.

The company notified the Public Service Commission last week of the proposed increase which is in compliance with the terms of section 20, chapter 784 of the Acts of 1913.

TO SELL MORE ARMY FOOD

In response to repeated demands from citizens for more of the surplus Army food, Sealer of Weights and Measures Andrew Prior has placed orders for 500 cases each of jam, peas and corn. As soon as these arrive they will be placed on sale at the four distribution points used in other food sales.

ALICE F. McCOURT

Miss Alice F. McCourt who passed away on Wednesday, Aug. 20, 1919, was one of the most popular of the younger set in West Newton. She was known as the "girl with the smile" and she lived up to it. In the year 1916 she won the scholarship for a year's tuition in the vocal department of the Conservatory of Boston and gave promise of being a talented singer. All who knew her will miss the one who made herself a favorite by being cheerful and pleasant under all circumstances. A sincere demonstration of the affection of her friends was shown by the quantity of beautiful flowers and spiritual bouquets which made her last resting place a veritable garden.

REPUBLICAN OUTING

Four Thousand G. O. P. Members at Norumbega Declare Themselves Against League of Nations as Drafted

The principal Republican outing of the year was staged at Norumbega Park on Wednesday and nearly 4,000 members of the G. O. P. from all parts of the Commonwealth were present to greet Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Governor Coolidge, Hon. William H. Hays who is chairman of the Republican National Committee, Chairman Frank B. Hall of the Republican State Committee, and other speakers.

Any proponent of the League of Nations covenant who might have been present must have been profoundly impressed when the gathering unanimously voiced their opposition to the League as drafted and demanded the adoption by the Senate of reservations which would preserve American rights and a continuation of American principles under the treaty of peace.

Senator Watson arraigned the Wilson administration and the audience yelled itself hoarse in approval of reservations that would permit America to determine her own policies, rather than have them dictated by any foreign council; that will allow America to continue to say who shall come to our shores; for the preservation of the Monroe Doctrine, "good enough for our fathers and good enough for us"; for the right of America to determine when she wants to get out of the League; that "no American soldier can be sent to any war without the sanction of Congress"; for a repudiation of the methods by which Japan "unbanned" the peace conference into giving her the province of Shantung.

"If I get these reservations, I'll vote for a League covenant," declared Senator Watson. "If I don't get them I'll vote against the whole business"; and the long-continued thunder of applause that followed caused the Indiana orator to declare:

"This audience is against the whole business." Probably never before even in the midst of a heated political campaign, has a Massachusetts audience, composed even of political partisans, displayed such a bitterness of feeling against the acts of a President of the United States. As Chairman Will Hays of the Republican National Committee and Senator Watson arraigned both administrations of Woodrow Wilson, they were interrupted by men in parts of the big theatre with questions and suggestions that tended to emphasize the platform exhortation of the Democratic leaders. At times it seemed as if the meeting was being turned into one for general discussion of the affairs of the nation, with hundreds of men taking part in an attempt to emphasize the fervid expression of red-blooded Americanism. Every suggestion of Senator Watson that he must

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

The home gardener is now reaping the fruits of his labor in the way of vegetables from the garden. The growing season as a whole has been a very suitable one for all crops. Insects have bothered from time to time but none have appeared in such large numbers as to become very destructive, except the plant lice which destroyed several pea crops in the county. The bean looper has also raised havoc among the beans in some localities.

The weekly heavy rains which have come during the past few weeks have done much to control the plant lice that were beginning to infest many gardens in large numbers. The plant lice have been held in check pretty well so far and will not now become serious so late in the season. A heavy rain will do as much to control plant lice as will a thorough spraying with "Black Leaf 40."

The danger from insect pests is about over. The dreaded blight disease of the potato is to be feared, however. It will pay those growing many potatoes to spray with Bordeaux Mixture up until the first of September. This is just the time for late blight to strike in and ruin a crop.

It has been noticed that those gardeners who trained their tomato plants to one or two stems and tied them up on stakes have had ripe tomatoes quite a good deal sooner than those who allowed their vines to grow in the natural way. It surely pays to take a little extra care of the tomato vines and follow the above method of training.

Many gardeners who have grown shell beans or beans for baking are now having the vines mature. It is well to cure the beans thoroughly before using them. A dry loft in the barn or shed where there is a good circulation of air is a good place to cure them. Another way is to drive two stakes into the ground about eighteen inches apart. Pull the vines and pack them in between the stakes. The vines should be handled carefully so that the beans will not be shaken from the pods. After they have stood several weeks and have become thoroughly dry, they may be threshed.

SUGAR NOT NECESSARY FOR CANNING

Despite the fact that ripe, mellow, local-grown peaches are plentiful this year, there is grave danger that thousands of baskets will go to waste unless housewives discard immediately the old-fashioned, false idea that great quantities of sugar must be used in canning. Dozens of telephone calls have been received by the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics at Waltham from farmers saying, "People aren't buying our peaches, because they can't get sugar. Unless the demand for the fruit shows a big increase during the next few days our main crops won't be worth the picking."

"Can it be true that housewives have forgotten what they learned during the war-time sugar shortages?" asks Mrs. Ida S. Harrington, county home economics specialist. Sugar is not an important factor in the keeping of canned products; it is the thorough sterilization and the perfect seal of the jar which keeps the product. In canning fruit, a liquid is necessary but fruit may be canned in water or in fruit juice. Sugar can be added at the time of using without loss of flavor or quality. If the fruit is plentiful and cheap, juices may be extracted by cooking the culls in a small quantity of water and squeezing out the juice and using it instead of water. This will give a richer and sweeter product. In canning fruit without sugar, use the ordinary time table for blanching and sterilizing."

Middlesex County boasts a great many peach orchards which are yielding bountifully right now. The season for this local fruit is at its height. These peaches are cheap when bought in quantities for canning and are much more satisfactory than those which are shipped in from outside of New England. Much of the latter fruit is picked before it is ripe in order to prevent spoiling before reaching the market.

BIBLE SCHOOL PLATTSBURG

The group of teachers of Intermediate and Senior grades at the Second Bible School Plattsburg of the Norumbega District Sunday School Association will be led by Mr. Anson T. Leary, Community Secretary of the Newton Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Leary, after graduating from Colby College spent some years in business before his special work at the Springfield Y. M. C. A. Training School. This was followed by work as Community Secretary of the New York, N. Y. Y. M. C. A., and service in an Army Camp. His training and experience particularly qualify him to lead groups dealing with this adolescent period.

MORE RUNAWAYS FOUND

The local police have handled an unusually large number of runaway boys this summer. The latest affair of this kind occurred early Wednesday morning when on Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, patrolman Henry Laughlin saw two boys walking along in their shirt sleeves. The night was chilly and this unusual attire coupled with the early hour, aroused the officer's curiosity. The boys said they were William Arvida, eighteen years old of New Bedford and Ernest Nason, aged seventeen, whose home is in Canton. They finally admitted that on Monday they escaped from the industrial school at Shirley and were making their way to Boston, sleeping by day and travelling at night. They were turned over to officials of the school.

Didn't Lose Any Time.
Ruth was left to watch baby brother in his bed while mother prepared dinner. In a few minutes followed a thump and then a wall. Running upstairs mother said, "I thought I left you to take care of brother?" "Well, mother, I did call you the very minute he hit the floor," was the comforting response.

end his speech was discouraged with shouts of "Go on," until at last the Indiana orator, mindful of the necessity of catching a train back to Washington, was compelled to cease.

One of the biggest demonstrations of the day came in response to Senator Watson's eulogy of Senator Lodge and the work he is doing as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"I want such reservations as are being framed by the Committee on Foreign Relations," said the senator. "Such reservations as will come from one of the greatest statesmen that ever graced a statesman's office, Henry Cabot Lodge. I have been with him day and night. I know the great work he is performing for America and I am proud of the opportunity, here, in the presence of his own people, to pay him the tribute of my unstinted respect."

Governor Coolidge, Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee and Chairman Frank B. Hall of the Republican State Committee were the other speakers and each was given enthusiastic greeting by the audience. Chairman Hall presided.

In his address Governor Coolidge appealed for a return to the "old-fashioned, homely, safe and sane thrift and industry" as a means of remedying the present high cost of living.

Chairman Hays praised Governor Coolidge and his red-blooded administration and appealed for patriotism in peace as well as war, which can be manifested by a more wide-spread interest in everyday politics.

The early afternoon rain tended to keep the attendance below the expected number. The candidates for the contested places on the State ticket—for attorney general and State Treasurer—were all on hand throughout the day, but none of them spoke, except as they passed through the crowd distributing their campaign cards with one hand and their felicitations with the other.

Robert J. Bottomly of Boston had the best organized band of campaigners of the candidates for attorney general. The Ward 7 Republican Club of Boston marched into the park, wearing tags marked "Coolidge, Cox, Bottomly, 50,000," and throughout the day they gave their organized yells for the three candidates of their choice.

J. Weston Allen distributed large gold-tipped cigarettes marked "Vote for Allen for Attorney General."

William Harold Hitchcock of Dedham and James Mott Hollowell hustled themselves buttonholing men in the crowd and their campaign cards were freely distributed.

The candidates for State Treasurer were also busy. Frederick N. Kerr of Winchester had a large banner near the entrance to the park, appealing for support, and later in the afternoon Fred J. Burrell of Medford also displayed a campaign banner nearer the theatre.

Lieutenant Colonel Frank S. Perkins of Salem had a large delegation of Essex County men wearing tags marked "We Want Perkins," and they scattered through the crowd, pinning their badges on men from all parts of the State who were willing to declare themselves in favor of the soldier candidate.

Senator Charles L. Gifford of the Cape, Frederick E. Pierce of Greenfield and Fred P. Greenwood of Everett, the other State Treasurer candidates, were also on hand, although they contented themselves with personal chats and distribution of cards.

The speaking exercises were in the park theatre. Before the orators took their places on the platform, Albert B. Brown acted as song leader and the audience joined in singing patriotic and popular songs.

WANTED TO ADOPT FOUNDLING

The little baby boy who has been waiting for his mother, who left him on the railroad bank near the Harvard street bridge last Friday without any clothing, a few hours after he entered the world, had a visitor Tuesday. She was a kind-hearted woman, whose home is in Boston, and who had read about the infant, who was found by John Hendricks, the street railway inspector, late at night, and she wanted to see if she could do anything toward giving the baby a home.

When she reached the Newton Hospital, where the baby is, she was even more desirous of adopting the child, who is in the best of health and is possessed of lusty lung power. But the authorities had decided to hold him awhile longer, in the hope that his mother will repent her unnatural action and reclaim him. So the woman, whose name is unknown, went back to Boston and the foundling is still waiting and waiting.

NORUMBEGA PARK

Evidence of the approaching winter season is shown by the announcement from Manager Benson of Norumbega Park that next week will be the final for the season, and for this he has replaced the stock company with an all-star vaudeville bill, which will be followed by a big feature picture, giving as his reason the fact that it may be the policy pursued at this amusement place next season. The headliners will be George L. Graves and Company, numbering four people in a new comedy sketch; the Zara Carmen Trio, jugglers and hoop rollers recently featured with Al. G. Fields Minstrels; Lambert Brothers and Donovan, in a novelty musical act; William Browning a monologist and comedian well known in big times; and Lester & Moore in a black face comedy skit entitled "Community Service." These acts will be followed by a big feature picture. In addition to the above, Edna Frances Simmons and her ladies' orchestra and all of the outdoor amusements that have increased the great popularity of the Park during the past season, will be at the service of the patrons.

Marguerite climbed upon a chair to the cage and shaking her finger at the bird said in a commanding tone, "You keep still! Don't you hear my mamma talking?"

Lily Leaves as Rafts.

Down in the Madras district of India there are lilies that grow leaves of phenomenal size. Indeed, these leaves are several feet in diameter and have turned-up edges to form a shallow bowl which floats on the water. The buoyancy of these leaves is such that they will readily carry the weight of a small child, as shown in the accompanying illustration. This variety of lily is known as the Victoria Regia.—Scientific American.

Really No Problem at All.

The question of the weight of a fish in water was settled over 250 years ago. It is said that Charles II of England once asked for a solution of the problem as to why a pail of water should weigh no more after a live fish was placed in it than before. The reasons ascribed by scientists were many, but no definite conclusions were reached. Finally one man, more practical than the others, tried the experiment and discovered that the weight was increased just as much as the fish weighed.

Laddie's Form of Exercise.

I was making a house-to-house canvass recently and as I turned in at one house I noticed a small boy and his dog, but the dog no sooner noticed me than he came bounding towards me, barking loudly. "Don't be afraid," called the lad, "Laddie won't bite; he is just exercising his bark."—Chicago Tribune.

Y.M.C.A. TRAIN SERVICE DEPT.

Serves 749,581 Members of
A. E. F. in Four Months

Great Difficulty Has Been Experienced. In Properly Housing Three Quarters of a Million Men.

Boston, July.—The train Service Department of the Y.M.C.A. in Paris served 749,581 members of the A.E.F. in the first four months.

On the Train Service Department of the Y.M.C.A. devolves the duty of not only welcoming all members of the A.E.F. upon their arrival in Paris but being sure that they are properly entrained and comfortably fixed at the time of their departure. This Department is being directed by James G. Connor, a newspaper man of Philadelphia. When taken over by him, the personnel consisted of six Y workers and a Ford camionette, with a capacity of twelve persons. Since that time, the work has developed so rapidly that the personnel has been increased to thirty men, besides a Director and an Assistant, and twelve large army trucks are necessary for transportation purposes.

The gares covered by the Train Service Department, are St. Lazare, Montparnasse, Austerlitz, Lyon, Orsay, Nord and Est. These stations are covered by Y workers from 6 o'clock A. M. until 12 Midnight and it is the duty of these men to heartily receive members of the A.E.F., both casuals and those on leave, direct them to the Red Cross canteens at the stations for meals, if they so desire, and place them on the trucks for transportation to the various Y.M.C.A. and Red Cross hotels located in Paris, for their stay while here. In addition to this work, the men have been dispensing cigarettes, chocolate and gum, which they have carried in large quantities in musette bags, selling them to the boys at cost price, and in some instances distributing them gratuitously, when discretion permits them to do so.

These Y welfare workers are also equipped to answer all sorts of questions put to them by the members of the A.E.F. That an idea may be gathered of the fund of information that they must have at hand, a few of the questions asked might be mentioned here.

"Where can I buy Kodak films?"
"Where is an American dentist?"
"Where is the Odd Fellows Lodge?"
"Where are the base hospitals?"
"Where is Tiffany's?"
"What is the rate of German exchange?"

"Where can I change Swiss money?"

"What hours are the Louvre open?"

In the past four months difficulty has been experienced in properly housing the three quarters of a million men. Along these lines, Col. L. H. McKinlay, Welfare Officer, U. S. Army, and Mr. Connor, have worked out a plan for the establishing of a Central Regulating Bureau the purpose of which will be to ascertain the number of beds available at the Y.M.C.A. and Red Cross Hotels in Paris, and through an intercommunicating telephone system between the Directing Office, Central Regulating Bureau, the R.T.O. Offices at the Gares and the R.T.O. Offices at the Gares and the R.T.O. Offices at the Gares, to keep a complete record of such accommodations which will be corrected every two hours of the time between 6 A. M. and Midnight. It is thought that this regulating system will do away with troubles heretofore faced by the "Doughboy" when upon arriving in Paris, he finds that he is unable to obtain sleeping quarters. Booths for the dissemination of information have been established at five of the seven Gares in Paris. These booths are adequately equipped with all sorts of literature bearing on the hotels, canteens, theatres, places that the Y operates for the entertainment of the boys, Religious Services, Sight-seeing Trips, and all other data that is of interest to the soldier visiting Paris.

The Train Service Department has been congratulated by United States Army Officials on the work it has carried out. Its Directing Office is at 45, rue Boissy-d'Anglas.

ROMAN CATHOLIC WARMLY EN-DORSES TRIANGLE WORK.

Percival A. McGuire, a manufacturer living in Queens, N. Y., is a Roman Catholic who warmly endorses the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Europe. Mr. McGuire went home recently, after serving as a "Y" secretary in Europe several months. Just before starting he wrote the following letter from Brest to E. C. Carter, the chief secretary of the A. E. F., Y. M. C. A., in Paris:

"On the eve of my departure for America, I wish to thank you and your associates for your generous and considerate treatment.

"I entered the service of the 'Y' as a Catholic, and I am glad to state that I found the association treated the enlisted men—regardless of color, race or creed—exactly alike.

"The mistakes of the 'Y' seem to me to be typically American and such as were made by every organization here, endeavoring to perform a great and important work under every difficulty created by war conditions."

CAN YOU LIVE ON $15 WEEKLY

Government Experts Place This Sum as the Smallest Livable Income

Can you live on $15 weekly? Government experts say that the smallest weekly amount on which a woman living in what is known as a "third" class city can maintain herself decently, is $15. Could you make $15 a week cover all your living expenses, from one year's end to the other? And if you are doing it, or intend doing it, just how?

Room and Board, $6.67. Room and board, according to government figures, should cost the $15 per week feminine workers, $6.67; this sum to include lunches. Clothing is placed at $4.60, with $3.60 left for all other and miscellaneous expenditures, such as car fare, dentist and doctor bills, laundry, all purchases not actually clothing, an occasional picnic or movie, and so on. The unreckoned weekly balance of 8 cents may account for postage, but otherwise it will not go far.

War, it is to be hoped, is over forever, but changing economic conditions at any time may work hardship, to poorly or even well-paid workers. The part of wisdom, therefore, is to make some sort of provision, however slender, however arduously accomplished, for such possibility. The slighter the regular financial margin, the sterner the necessity. For such necessities and emergencies Thrift and War Savings Stamps most admirably suffice.

Purchase Stamp Weekly.
The purchase of even a single Thrift Stamp weekly, means $1 a month put into the safest of all investments, government securities. Four months will represent the sixteen Thrift Stamps, with a few pennies added, means later realization of $5. And even if a War Savings Stamp can be purchased but three times yearly, the future situation will be brighter by a regularly increasing contingent of income-bearing investments.

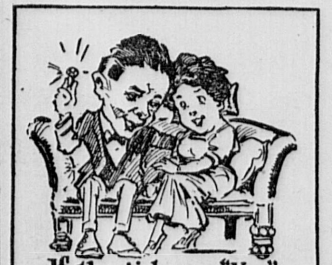

It is fun to save as a future-profit-making game!

NEED $3,000,000,000 FOR EXPORT TRADE

"In entering the battle for world trade supremacy, the United States must rely upon the American people as a whole to furnish the silver bullets. The Federal Reserve Board states that 3,000,000,000 of new funds must be provided in the next few months if the United States maintains its present position in export trade. This sum must come from the children's banks, from the egg money of the farmer's wives, and from the surplus created by the people's savings."

Fight Shyster Brokers.
So said William Mather Lewis, Vice-director of the Savings Division, Treasury Department, in an address delivered before the National Retail Hardware Association at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania recently.

Continuing, Mr. Lewis said: "If the American people can be taught to give one-tenth the thought they devote to making money to the problem of spending and investing it wisely, the financial stability of the country is assured. Furthermore, the gold-brick man and the shyster broker and banker, who are not plying their unduly traffic in separating the ignorant from their Government Bonds and War Savings Stamps will go out of business."

Stick to Savings Stamps and you won't be stuck.

What you will be tomorrow depends on what you save today.

You are worth what you have saved.

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

A remarkable vaudeville consisting of five big all star acts lead the bill next week, at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre headed by Charles Semon, Osaki & Taki, Jessie Hayward & Co., Roy & Arthur, and the Mystic Hanson Trio. Arthur Martell, America's Premier Organist returns to this theatre for a limited engagement on September 8th. The character portrayed by the talented stage and screen star, Elsie Ferguson in her latest Art-craft photoplay, "A Society Exile," which will be shown at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, is one which most of us would probably have considered untrue to life in the days before the war. There is an entire change of program Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and a grand sacred concert Sunday night.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"The Right to Happiness," the sensational photoplay featuring Dorothy Phillips, which began a limited engagement at the Majestic Theatre last Monday, is of extraordinary interest just at this time. In this remarkable and dramatic romance the working of the Soviet are shown, and the centuries-old battle between the classes is thrillingly illustrated. It is not by any means a propaganda picture. It sides neither with the capitalists nor with the laborer. It is a delightful love story with the vital facts which no man, woman or child can avoid facing squarely as a background. It illustrates far better than the most scholarly dissertation, far better than the most polished of silver-tongued orators, existing conditions, their dangers and the possible remedies. Scenes of "The Right to Happiness" are laid in old Russia, in war-time Russia, in New York's lower East Side, in New York's most fashionable residential section, and in the industrial district.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—The Craig Players have returned to Boston. After a two years absence, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig (Mary Young) have resumed the direction of the Castle Square Theatre, now known as the Arlington, and will produce there a series of new plays, and bring back to its stage a number of notable revivals, including a group of Shakespearean productions. Their first play is a new drama entitled "Prisoner of the World," and after its opening performance it will be continued through the coming week. Regular matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday, and there will be a special holiday on Monday. The new play is the work of Margaret Mayo and Henry James Forman, its scene is a neutral country of Europe just following the signing of the armistice last autumn, and one of its leading figures is the Kaiser. Its plot deals with schemes to place him in power again, and its scenes reveal him as a coward who can command no sympathy in the hour of his overwhelming defeat. An excellent company has been gathered for the performance of this new play at the Arlington Theatre. It is headed by Mr. Craig, and Miss Young, the role of the Kaiser is acted by Charles Dalton, and others in the cast are Rose Coghlan, Arthur Aldred, William H. Powell, Mark Kent and Al Roberts.

Island Scene of Fierce Fighting.
The Isle of Wight, indeed, has had a checkered history as far as wars are concerned. Romans, Jutes, Saxons, Danes all descended upon it in their time, and from the fourteenth to the sixteenth centuries the islanders lived under the almost continuous threat of invasion by the French, who, in 1377, burnt Yarmouth, and so devastated Newport that it "lay uninhabited for two years."

Passed Up Tempting Offer.
William Ewart Gladstone, the great statesman, refused tens of thousands of pounds offered to him for articles by publishers. It is said that an American magazine proprietor once sent him a blank check and told him to fill it up for any amount he pleased so long as he sent him 2,000 words for his magazine. Mr. Gladstone returned the letter and the check also as blank as it arrived.

That Much Assured.

A somewhat impetuous young fellow rashly engaged himself to a charming young thing, who shortly after the excitement had subsided began to evince doubts. Said she: "How long, dearie, do you think we shall have to be engaged?" "Well, sweetheart," said the young man cheerily, "I have enough money to last for six months, I think."

DOW-MENUT

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Menut, Dunstable, Mass., Saturday, August 23, at 4 P. M., their youngest daughter, Alice Draper Menut was married to Charles William Dow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dow of 10 Church road, Newton.

The Rev. Bartlett H. Weston of Georgetown, Mass., performed the double ring ceremony. Mr. Weston was formerly pastor of the Dunstable Congregational Church.

The best man was Mr. Ivan Cornell of Brookline, who has recently returned from France, and was dressed in uniform. The matron of honor was Mrs. Russell Steane of Hartford, Conn., a sister of the bride. Little Janet Louise Hale, 3-year-old niece of the groom as ring bearer was very conspicuous in the ceremony.

The house was beautifully decorated with evergreen, marigolds, and golden rod.

Many relatives and friends were present to witness the ceremony and to wish bride and groom a Godspeed. Many beautiful and costly presents were bestowed upon the happy pair.

Mrs. Dow has been, for several years, head nurse at the Brookline Free Hospital for Women, and highly esteemed by the management. Mr. Dow was born in Newton and educated in the Newton and Brookline schools. After a short honeymoon to the western states, Mr. and Mrs. Dow will reside in Newton.

BOSTON PROGRESSIVE SCHOOL

The Boston Progressive School of Music, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Guckenberger, will soon open its doors for the Fall season of 1919-20. Courses in piano, theory, musical analysis, analytical harmony, musical pedagogy, history of music, score reading and conducting are given, also coaching for opera, oratorical and recital. Mr. Guckenberger, active in Boston since 1903 as a teacher and conductor, has given much attention to the question of standardization of music study, and as a result of his investigation has become an authorized exponent in Boston of the Progressive Series of Piano Lessons, formulated by the great pianist, Leopold Godowsky, and recognized as one of the most modern and efficient of piano teaching systems. This course consists of exercises for the hand invented by Godowsky, with many studies especially selected by him from the best works on piano playing, and finally, a series of special arrangements by Godowsky, from the entire literature of orchestral and chamber music, including sonatas, sacred music, folk melodies and folk dances of all peoples. The hand, the brain, and the musical knowledge and taste of the pupil are thus developed simultaneously, and the pupil, in Guckenberger's opinion, best qualified to think for himself and carry on his individual studies after graduation.

TO ENLARGE PARISH HOUSE

Changes At Grace Church Will Provide Large Assembly Hall With Modern Stage

Ground has been broken for an important addition to the present parish house of Grace Church. The plans call for the building on of a wing that will face toward Vernon street, adjoining the present structure at right angles. The small rooms and hallways at present in the upper part of the parish house are to be removed so that the building, when altered, will be much higher celled than at present. When completed a hall with seats for 250 people will be provided, with a modern stage of good dimensions at the end nearest Vernon street. The need of such an improvement has long been felt, for while the Men's Club and the other organizations connected with the church have held their meetings the present quarters have been found far too small, while in case of entertainments or dancing parties it has been necessary to secure the assembly hall of the Hunnewell Club.

LOCAL ARCHERS CONTESTING

Several From Newton Are Entered In National Association's Tourney At Cambridge

Practically all of the archery enthusiasts of the Newtons are attending the twenty-ninth annual tourney of the National Archery Association, which is in progress this week at Soldiers Field. Burton Payne Gray, one of the most enthusiastic archers in the country, and one who has done much to further the interests of the sport, is prevented by illness from taking part and for that reason Mrs. Gray has been unable to attend. James P. True of Newton, secretary-treasurer of the Association, is a contestant. His wife and daughters, the Misses Natalie and Eleanor True are also shooting. Miss Natalie, in particular, making a creditable showing in the various events.

WEDS NEWTON ALDERMAN

Miss Mildred F. Bates, a Teacher, Becomes Bride of Justin A. McCarthy

Miss Mildred F. Bates of 22 Perkins street, West Newton, a number of years a teacher in the Newton schools, was married on Monday evening to Alderman Justin A. McCarthy of 228 Cherry street, West Newton.

The ceremony was performed at the parochial residence of St. Bernard's Church by the pastor, Rev. John F. Keleher. Mrs. Arthur Robbins of Medford was matron of honor and the best man was Algernon McCarthy, brother of the bridegroom. A reception was held later in a Boston hotel. Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy will make their home on Buckminster street, Allston.

ENTERTAINS ASSOCIATES

George M. Cox Furnished Clam Festival For Middlesex & Boston Officials At His Summer Home

With George M. Cox, as host, the operating officials of the Middlesex & Boston system had an enjoyable outing Wednesday at the Cox summer home at Hough's Neck. The trip was made by automobile and no member of the party ever imagined there were so many clams in the world, or that they could be served in so many different ways, as when they were called to dinner.

Prior to this a baseball game was started but when six innings had been played the high tide flooded the diamond. When the tide receded the rain commenced so indoor sports were in order. Music, impromptu speaking, and much good-natured chaffing helped to pass the time.

The party included President Pitt F. Drew; general superintendent, H. H. Hanson; division superintendents, James Sullivan, S. E. Walker, F. P. Quackenbush, and W. S. Gammons; purchasing agent, G. G. L. Henderson; F. S. Bagley of the claim department; Superintendent George Hill; assistant treasurer, Frank Frykstrand; J. Mullein, John Goldrick, John Campbell, Joseph Gauthier, Ernest Veno, and Clarence Cormier. In addition Fred W. Young of Auburndale and L. M.

McLean, an inspector for the Public Service Commission, were guests.

PIRATES HAD SHORT CAREERS

Newton Youngsters Who Sought Adventure Fall Into Hands of Police at Revere

Five small boys of the Newton Upper Falls section tired of home life on Tuesday, particularly in view of the fact that vacation is nearly ended and that school time is approaching. Their summer literature dealt largely with various kinds of outlaws and pirates in particular. Piracy appealed to them and they set forth Monday morning for the sea coast and the life of freebooters. They were somewhat hazy as to direction, but finally landed at Revere which is close enough to a more or less raging main to be a good place for the start they required but temptation in the form of the various beach amusements proved too strong and when the embryo pirates finally took account of stock their slender store of money had vanished.

Night was approaching, also, and they were hungry, cold and somewhat apprehensive as to parental wrath. A Metropolitan Park policeman was finally appealed to and soon a good supper and warm quarters were provided while word was sent to the police here. Anxious fathers and mothers were reassured and on Wednesday the wanderers returned. They are Thomas Osborne, Cronius Thirir, Fred Murphy, James Stevenson, and William Asurilis. The oldest is but ten years old.

Marshal Foch has acquired a British habit. The French do not generally smoke pipes. Day by day Marshal Foch saw Field Marshal Haig and other British generals in the vortex of the work calmly doing their work behind good high-bowled briar pipes. Foch asked Haig what it was like to smoke a pipe. He bought an English one. He filled it under careful British military instruction. He began the attempt with energy and purposeful determination, but at first smoked more matches than tobacco. Now, however, he has mastered it and thoroughly enjoys a good briar which he has bought from an English firm.

Many Horses Stay "Over There."

Not all our fighters will return to the land of their birth. Most of the men—those that are living—will come home, but many of the horses will not, for there is great need of draft animals in the reconstruction work in France and Belgium, and there are plenty of war-worn horses that a few weeks or months of rest will restore to usefulness. The Red Star animal relief organization in New York is interesting itself in the pleasant task of getting the poor old war horses into fresh fields and pastures green.—Youth's Companion.

The Victor's Homecoming.

Sir Douglas Haig's Grenadier guard of honor at Charing Cross, when the man of the hour came home, was a particularly fine body of men, and from end to end of the lines there was hardly a man without wound stripes. Not a few of the distinguished people on the platform noticed that three of the guard, standing side by side, had 16 wound stripes between them.

Contradictory Emotions.

"Something I can't understand," mused Senator Sorghum, "is the way contradictory emotions simultaneously develop."

"Referring to what?"

"Every time I begin to talk about universal peace some suggestion occurs that warms up my fighting blood."

Not All Officers.

I have three brothers in the service. One is a captain; one is a first lieutenant. The youngest, when asked if he was not up for a commission, replied: "Guess not; there have to be some privates."—Exchange.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER.

With the food problems of the present day, a housekeeper must not only be a good manager but a mathematician. It is necessary to have no waste, that careful preparation for each meal be made. Surprise Biscuit.—Prepare baking powder biscuit as usual with the exception of wheat flour; substitute corn flour, potato or barley. Roll the biscuit rather thin and place a spoonful of chopped seasoned meat on one, cover with another, bake until well done and serve with a brown gravy poured over each. This makes a good main dish, which will use up leftover meats.

Add a cupful of stoned chopped dates to a loaf of bread when ready for the pan.

Cheese Salad.—Grate half a pound of cheese and mix it with a boiled salad dressing, or a mayonnaise, enough to make it creamy. Put it through a potato ricer on head lettuce and serve with bits of chopped olives for a garnish. Grated maple sugar, chopped almonds and cream make delicious sandwich filling and quite in season.

Date Tapioca.—Cook in a double boiler, stirring frequently, three tablespoonfuls of tapioca, three pints of milk and three-fourths of a cupful of maple syrup. When cool stir in a cupful of chopped dates, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, then bake in a well buttered baking dish.

East Indian Meat.—Put a pound and a half of round steak through a meat grinder, also one green pepper and onion, a cupful of bread crumbs and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and make into a loaf. Lay in the baking pan with slices of bacon over the top, pour over a can of tomatoes and bake one and one-quarter hours. Remove the meat and thicken the sauce. Serve either hot or cold.

Destructive Civil War.
Civil war in England lasted from 1642 to 1660—eighteen years—being contemporaneous part of the time with the Thirty Years war, which divided all Germany into two opposing camps. It found the empire with a population of 16,000,000, and left it with less than 5,000,000.
